Just in time for holiday cheer, Deseronto's new Liquor Control Board opens today. The handsome new building houses a wide assortment of wines, beer and liquor.

Chrétien Listens Counter-Proposal to White Paper Presented

The Mohawk Institute on the Six Nations Reserve near Brantford was the scene of an important conference last weekend when members of the Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians met with the Minister of Indian Affairs, the Hon. Jean Chrétien to present their counter-proposal to the federal government's white paper on Indian policy.

Chiefs and councils from the seven member bands were there, as well as representatives from twelve other bands, who have not, as yet, joined the Association, although some of these indicated their interest in so doing.

From the Tyendinaga Mohawk band, Chief Earl Hill and Councillors Dr. C. C. Brant, Carl D. Brant, Willard Hill and Garnet Maracle were in attendance, as well as welfare administrator, John R. Brant. A number of other interested band members travelled to the conference with the official delegates. Other member bands participating in the conference were the St. Regis, Missisquoi, Oneida, Gibson, Moravian and Six Nations bands.

The formal presentation to the Minister was made on Saturday afternoon, by seven sub-committee members, representing five bands.

Chief Earl Hill, chairman of the sub-committee on claims and treaties, spoke, as did others from the sub-committees of lands, economic development, health and welfare, education, membership and financing. All the points presented to the minister had been previously agreed upon by all members of the Association, which means that each member band council, had passed resolutions endorsing each point presented in the brief. The political structure of the Association is a fairly complex one, and is patterned on the structure of the Iroquois Confederacy.

Following the formal presentation, a question and answer period followed with the Honourable Minister, Mr. Chrétien, fielding questions from the floor.

Chief Hill's feelings was that Mr. Chrétien was "quite sincere" in his response, and that things are definitely moving in the direction of an amicable working agreement between the AIAI and the federal government. The situation has definitely improved in the last year and a half, Chief Hill said, since representatives of the Association began official discussions with various members of the government in Ottawa. We used our own money for these delegations said the Chief, as an aside.

Discussions followed on Sunday, but without Mr. Chrétien.

The next conference is scheduled to be held in January on the St. Regis Reserve near Cornwall, when further plans will be made, and an executive director possibly appointed.

In the meantime, the two Mohawk member bands -- Tyendinaga and Six Nations will hold elections on December 18th. On the Tyendinaga Reserve, Chief Earl Hill, has again been chosen to lead the Mohawk People's Party (originally nicknamed the Longhairs) but the leader of the Progressive Mohawks (the Shorthairs) had, at press time, not been officially named.

But no matter who is elected as Chief and Council, the points as presented last weekend's conference will not be changed for all our band members are in agreement on those, he said.

(next week's Scanner will carry a story on the content of the counter-proposal)

Major quake on Amchitka

A major earthquake occurred Wednesday near the east coast of Amchitka in the Aleutian Islands, the National Earthquake Centre reported.

The quake measured 7.3 on the Richter scale and is the third in the area since the United States detonated a nuclear warhead in the Aleutians on Nov. 6.

TV Tower to be Erected in Sophiasburg

Bushnell Communications, Ltd. Ottawa completed moving in sections of the Channel 6 television relay tower on Saturday, November 27th. It will be set up on lot 41, 1st concession, southwest Green Point is Sophiasburg Township, Prince Edward County.

Michael Cole, RR 2 Picton who is the local representative for the company, says it will be late next summer or early fall before the high structure, composed chiefly of twenty-six, 20-foot steel lengths, weighing 1200 lbs. each, is completed. When completed, the tower will be triangular in shape, five feet to a side and will be supported on a concrete base buried 16 feet underground.

DESERONTO ELECTION

Monday, December 6th, will be election day in Deseronto.

Opposing incumbent James Sharpe for the office of Mayor is Mrs. Dorothy McCullough. Mayor Sharpe is completing his second two year term as Mayor.

Opposing Frank Topping for the seat on the Public Utilities Commission is Adrian McCormick.

Electorals have a choice to make for the four open seats on Council. Qualifying as candidates are Percy Brooks, Peter Dickinson; Edgar Gordanier; James McVicker; John Mitchell and Fletcher Vick.

With the top office of Mayor to be decided and a good slate of candidates a large turn-out of voters is to be expected.

MEET THE CANDIDATES

Deseronto residents will have an opportunity to meet their candidates Friday night at the Lions' Hall.

Father Snoren will chair the informal forum, at which each candidate will be given equal time to express his views.

The meeting starts at 8 p.m. and is expected to be quite short. Coffee will be served.

FREE TICKETS

Any child 16 or under may obtain free tickets to the Junior B hockey game in Belleville, on December 3rd at 8 p.m., from Gerald Lawlor, Rod Wannamaker, Ross Kemp, or Del Ueno at the Public School.

Bus transportation is available for 25¢; the bus is to leave the Town Hall at 7 p.m.

OPEN LETTER

the abortion issue

CONCERNING A QUALIFIED MURDER

Is the destruction of a human foetus in the mother's womb a qualified murder? Up to the beginning of this century, philosophers and scientists were very vague in regard to this matter, in order to answer this question correctly. It is necessary to know at what precise moment, after conception, that human life begins. The answer to this basic question lies in the Science of Cellular Biology and Genetics. In both these areas, spectacular progress has been made in the last decade. In the past 15 years, many scientific laboratories have brought out the mechanism of life and cellular reproduction in general, and in the human being in particular. While, at Harvard, they were discovering the structure of deoxyribonucleic acid, that revolutionized traditional cytology, researchers from Toronto and Winnipeg were making important discoveries about the mechanism of hereditary transmission. Thus, by corollary, we have been shown the perfect continuity of the development of the human being from the initial cell which multiplies itself up to six billion times in twenty years to form an adult. Also genetics or "blueprint" of the man or woman it will become, having in it from the very beginning more than 100,000 specifications codified on the gene of chromosomes. It is thus that the resultant man or woman will be distinct and differentiated from 3 billion other human beings on the planet. Where then does human life begin? To be specific, in the first initial cell of the embryo.

Therefore if human life begins in the embryo, where do its rights begin? Logic or simple common sense tells us, the same place that conception has taken place.

It's deplorable to see a Code that does not acknowledge a child's civic rights until he is born. Such a mentality is, to say the least, medieval. Even more revolting is this "Women's Liberation movement" which teaches that a woman has an absolute right over herself physically and that by consequence, in case of pregnancy she can be aborted at any time she so desires. Let us immediately say that neither woman or men are in absolute authority over their person: thus no one has the right to commit suicide; on the other hand, everyone has not only the right, but also the duty to maintain their health. Furthermore, if a woman has a certain right over her person, it is necessary to remind her that she does not have the same rights over the body of the child that lives in her womb. It is not her body, both physically and biologically it differs from hers. The only right Nature gives the Mother over her child, is the right to protect it against the "folly of the century". This is one of the main reasons it is in her womb. Have you ever heard of a Mother Swallow inviting a squirrel for a "snack" made of the eggs she just laid, so as not to have the trouble of hatching them?

However that may be, to punish a society that refuses the right to punish by death a criminal such as Paul Rose, with which I personally agree, why should this same society have the right to put to death thousands and thousands of children by permitting their murder in the Mother's womb and this for the most futile and fleeting of motives.

Let us not delude ourselves a voluntary abortion which is premeditated, planned, and perpetrated is a qualified murder.

As for the advocates of this new modern massacre of "Holy Innocents" I will reciprocate with the slightly altered phrase of the celebrated poet Pelagius: "Vous êtes pas tannes de faire mourir 'les autres' bande de covets!" (Aren't you tired of having 'others' killed, folks of you!)

--Therese Martel Jutras MD

PERSPECTIVE

The way back to decent relations with the land and with one another is surely going to be a long, long road. An entire generation is going to have to learn to think differently to accomplish this change. In stead of continuing the civilization of "always more," people are going to have to learn to want, have and use up less and less. It is not impossible, although it probably looks impossible to those with large emotional as well as financial investments in the old views. Those who refuse to try will probably find "Nature" a very stern persuader, with whom, finally, no clever delaying tactics will work.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:
REMEMBRANCE DAY - POPPY DAY, IN DESERONTO

It is my pleasure to thank people of the town and neighbouring communities for the response on our annual Poppy Day, also to those who got their wreaths for the Remembrance services.

I take the opportunity to express my appreciation to Ladies Auxiliary and members at Branch 280 who were canvassing and tagging.

Special thanks go to teens of town: Pam Armitage, Barb Kimmett, Penny Mitchell, Susan Reid, Rose Roebuck and Nora Witkowski for tagging, counting and packaging the money collected.

Yours truly,

SEASONAL EMPLOYMENT PROJECT UNDERWAY

Over 150 men will be employed in the Tweed Forest District this winter. The break-down is 107 men in A.R.D.A. projects and 55 men on O.S.E.P.

projects. The main objective of these projects is to provide employment opportunities for rural people at the time when these are badly needed. The projects are divided into two categories depending on the source of funds. A.R.D.A. projects are a cost sharing programme between the Federal and Provincial governments. The Ontario Seasonal Employment Programme (O.S.E.P.) is an Ontario Government sponsored programme. Both programmes are supervised by the Department of Lands and Forest and include work for Timber, Parks, Fish and Wildlife and Lands and Environment Branches.

James A. Taylor, member of the Legislature for Prince Edward-Lennox has announced the following seasonal employment projects commencing immediately in the riding.

1. Napanee Headquarters
Construction of nesting boxes for wood ducks and song birds and platforms for geese for Camden Lake. These will be built at Napanee chief Ranger Division and will provide employment for one man for four months at a cost of $2,300. The project was to commence November 22nd.

2. Outlet Park
Removal of danger trees in the campground area will provide employment for five men for two months at a cost of $4,000. Work was to commence on this by November 22nd. The wood from the trees will be used for firewood in the park next summer.

3. Outlet Park
Boundary fencing of the park will provide work for ten men for two months at a cost of $13,000.

- 4 North Beach Park
Boundary fencing at North Beach will provide employment for three men for five weeks, commencing about December 3rd, at a cost of $2,000.

The total for the four projects are nineteen men at a cost of $21,300.

Over at Frank's Place

Hey, have you heard about these new fandangled water beds they're selling now in the stores? Just think how the missus would react to findin' one of those under the Zmas tree. That's if you could scrape up enough bread (that's what it's called nowadays) to buy one.

Sure you might have to put it in the cellar cause the old beams grampa put in to support the upstairs floors have long ago caught arthritis. Come to think of it, a bed in the basement might not be such a bad idea. I could sneak in through the cellar-way for a quick snooze and the missus thinking all this time that I'm out slavin'.

But knowing her she'd soon twig to the loud grumbling from down below... she says I snore. I can just see it now. I sneak in one day, take a flying leap to the bed and end up smashing my noggin on the dirt. Sure as anythin' she'd explain to my black and blue face that it was time to change the water! Then the well would run dry and you couldn't fill up the bed again till next spring.

Guess I better forget about a water bed for this place. But the idea of a bed down in the cellar sure sounds awful nice. I gotta work on that one. She'd still hear me snore though, even if I could manage to find an excuse to put a bed down there in the first place. Mebbe if I told her that it'd be a good idea to insulate between the rafters so's her kitchen floor wouldn't be cold anymore. The insulation ought to be enough to stop the snoring from comin' thru.

Well, I got all winter to think about that one. Not much work to be done outside this time of year, and besides it's too cold to sleep down there right now. But next summer when it's hot and steamy outside... Yep, I really gotta put some thought into this.

So long, neighbours.

SMOKING SURVEY FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

A cross-section of Ontario's two million public school students will be questioned about their smoking habits during the next few weeks, it was announced Thursday.

The replies of 30,000 English-speaking children and 1,500 French-speaking children will be analysed by University of Waterloo computers to determine why children smoke.

School replies, parental smoking patterns and the students' attitudes to smoking will be examined in the questionnaire which will be distributed to hundreds of public schools by members of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations.

SAFE DRIVING WEEK

Safe Driving Week (December 1-7) is an ironic comment on human behavior. It is an attempt to prove, through one week's special effort and attention, that the agony of traffic deaths and suffering can be reduced if motorists adopt defensive driving habits.

The winter months tend to be a high collision period, though the number of deaths and injuries tapers off. December is no longer the disastrous month it used to be as drivers respond to the need for safety under heavy weather conditions and the intensity of pre-Christmas police spot-checks. But a lot of bad driving practices re-appear when the spot-checks end and the snow has gone.

The Province of Ontario believes the effective way to overcome the dangers to human life created by a large mobile population is for each driver to acknowledge personal responsibility for his safety and that of others. To drive defensively. To assume the other person may not do the same.

Let's resolve that we won't try to take the other driver a lesson, no matter how stupid he seems, no matter how angry he makes us.

How Not To Prepare For Christmas

So here it is, that time of year when all women of god will finally have to face the inevitable—Christmas is less than a month away.

There is so much to do and I spend so much time regretting that I haven't already done it that I'll never be ready on time. Let me explain.

If I happen to look out a window, which is bound to happen a few times a day, I am immediately reminded of that beautiful Indian summer day a month ago when, armed with rag newspapers, step ladder and cleaning fluid, I stepped outside to wash all the windows. One whiff of that stupendous fall air and I was a goner. Who can wash windows and deny her soul the richness and enjoyment of nature on such a day! Now I'll have to plow through snow drifts and scrub them with my mittens on.

The prospect of all the Christmas goodies to be looked after throws me into a tizzy. I KNOW that I carefully cut out a scrumptious sounding recipe for Tun De Dum Christmas Cookies way back in July while leafing through an old discarded magazine. But now the problem is to find the blasted thing before February. I'll probably end up baking peanut butter cookies and sticking a cherry on top of each one.

And Christmas cards! How

I wish now that I had taken the time to buy a few boxes last January while they were on sale. The price of those I am now forced to buy suggests that they were individually drawn by a fussy artist who wears nothing but clothes woven with gold. And last year, as I guiltily and hurriedly scribbled "Best wishes from..." to cards destined to dear old friends, I solemnly promised myself that this year I would start early enough to be able to write a short letter in each. False hope's again!!

My mind boggles at the thought of what seems like dozens of nephews and nieces who expect a present from me. With every month that goes by they grow an inch or switch their attention from wood burning to medieval history to snake handling. How is a poor old relative supposed to know that the November fad does not hold a smidgen of interest in December. So, it's back to a browsing through the catalogue, desperately searching for gifts to suit any youngster from age two to thirteen, male or female, and cheap. Outside of records (which I gave them last year) I can't think of a thing. Oh, Well!! Maybe "Mary Poppins" and the "Guess Who's" will do it this year.

But the worst problem I'm faced with is dear old hubby. Ever since we were married he needed (?) small enough, and inexpensive, little things to take care of birthdays and Christmas. This year his tool chest is bulging with screw drivers and socket things-a-majigs; he's got three pairs of socks for every day of the week; he can boast ties of every hue from chartreuse to cockatoo yellow; he owns a razor, a watch a pipe, slippers, two pairs of pyjamas he never wears, a jigger, and nine pairs of cuff links. I know he needs a new manure fork, but I refuse to stick such a thing under the Christmas tree even if it should have a big red bow on it. So through the catalogue I frantically search again.

If I can just get through this holiday season, I swear that next year.... SIDRA

ATTENTION MOTHERS

Monday morning, Nov. 29 was an experimental meeting for Mother's Auxiliary of Guides and Brownies to try and get more mothers out in the daytime. It was held in Stover Hall so the pre-schoolers could play.

We know that a lot of mothers work but we think a little more co-operation is necessary from all mothers to make the auxiliary a success. Without the mothers behind the girls there would be no guides or brownies in Deseronto. Also without the voluntary leaders, of whom some have no girls of their own in guides or brownies, there would be no organization.

Plans for those present at the meeting were made for a bake sale in January and a mother and daughter banquet in February. The next meeting will be the 24th of January. Let's all try to be there and help out.

As Time Marches on

Dear Friend--

Well this "farmer gal" put on her city duds and managed to take a trip to her old home town. Sure isn't like it used to be when I was a child! Apartments are growing up like mushrooms. Drive by the old house where I used to live as a little girl. Trees don't line the street any more, but I was happy to see the maple tree, I planted years ago as a seed, which has grown into a tree. It now peeps from the backyard, high over the roof top.

I used to listen to the radio to hear "The Shadow" and "Pepper Young's Family". I wonder did they ever find their lost son from his phone crash in the jungle? I would like to turn on the radio again and hear they did, even if it is 30 years later!! Now radio gives other goodies, such as the daily pollution count. Oh well, it just makes me realize how much I love my open spaces here and what I'm not missing.

The trip was a happy occasion, my grand daughter's christening at which she flirted with everyone and had a ball.

Christmas at the Lairds

On the first day of "Christmas at the Laird's", Sunday afternoon, December 5, Allan Macpherson's house will resound with Christmas carols, sung this year by boy choristers and a girls' choir also. Included in the programme in the ballroom, where once John A. Macdonald staged a Christmas Programme for the Macphersons, will be the Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale, "The Little Match Girl".

Long before white people came to Upper Canada and brought with them their celebrations of Christ's birth the Innuits had their own legends of a prophet, born of a virgin, come to bring peace on earth. The tale of this mythical prophet Daganawidja, is to be told by one of the Mohawk tribe of the Innuits, David Maracle.

The boys choir of St. Mary Magdalene is under the direction of Mrs. K. Ham. The youth choir of Grace Church is directed by Mrs. T. Larstone. Steacy Babcock will depict the Little Match girl with Dr. R. Macpherson as narrator. The pantomime will be arranged by M. E. Drew.

David Maracle, who will tell the story of Daganawidja is assistant editor of Indian News, a news letter that goes out from Ottawa to Indians across Canada. David has been active in reviving Indian crafts on the Tyendinaga Reserve, and in teaching the dying Mohawk language to his people.

On Sunday, and all during the week of December 5 to 11 the Laird's house will be redolent of Christmas greens and wood smoke from open fireplaces. On week days the spicy odours of Christmas baking, and bread rising in the brick oven will be added to the conglomerate smell of Christmas as it used to be.

The featured attraction this year will be a collection of dolls cherished by little girls of long ago. These dolls have been collected by Mrs. H.C. Burleigh of Bath, and loaned especially for this occasion.

All my family had decided I am too thin. So my daughter-in-law kept pushing food at me. At first I nearly gagged at the sight of two eggs (looking at me like eyes) staring at me. But as I ate I began to enjoy the service bestowed on me, and being served hot chocolate and toast in bed. They hid the coffee. So her neighbour, also a coffee drinker, felt sorry for me and smuggled me some over. I was given an 11 o'clock curfew (an school night) by my son (tauche). So when I awoke in late after a visit with family and an old girlfriend, I felt like a kid. The floor squeaked and gave me away.

I thought it was bad enough those years waiting with one ear listening for my teen-agers to come home safely now I know how "THEY felt"!!

Sure glad I'm a Grandmal!

Schools in the community

Re: The Community School Project in Hastings County, 1970 - 71

The Community School Project has now been in operation for one year, in the County. The following is a report on the results of the year's operation.

The Community School Program at Flint, Michigan had been visited by many groups from all over Ontario and it was felt that a visit by a representative group of people from Hastings County would prove informative and valuable.

The visit was arranged, the trip made and an enthusiastic group returned to Hastings County to ascertain if any of the program, as outlined in Flint, could be adoptable in the County. It was realized that the program as developed in Flint, could not be duplicated in the County but the concept of the school being used by the people of the community for the benefit of those people, was endorsed wholeheartedly. One fundamental principle arising from the Flint study was the need for proper professional leadership to "steer" this program and develop the community potential.

The Hastings County Board of Education was encouraged by the community to embark on a Community School Program for the County. Financial support was received from the Ontario Department of Education when the Department approved Hastings County for one of the pilot projects being conducted in the Province.

Taking a lead from all the evidence available the decision was made to hire a full-time staff person to develop and co-ordinate the program of community schools within the County, a Co-ordinator of Community School Programs.

School as an extension of the community becomes a focal point in community development. Objectives of this concept are to improve the quality of living, to use the community as a laboratory for learning, to make the school plant the centre of community living, to organize the curriculum around the fundamental processes and problems of living, to include lay people in school policy and program planning, to provide leadership in the co-ordination of community services, and to practice and promote democracy in all human relationships.

With over fifty "communities" in Hastings County it was quite obvious that the community groups, either existing ones or newly formed, would have to take the responsibility of leadership in the community.

The Co-ordinator becomes the resource person to the community personnel providing whatever professional assistance and expertise is required. In addition the Co-ordinator provides an important link between the community resources and out-of-community resources. These findings support one of the major conclusions reached by the Flint study group and mentioned previously that the project founded unless supported by a knowledgeable, and active professional staff.

Because of our particular approach to the development of community involvement, it is difficult to ascertain the degree of effectiveness which the Co-ordinator has had in the brief period of eight months on this particular program. It is enough to say that at this point the response of the communities contacted has been most encourageing and a high degree of enthusiasm has been shown by these communities in the development and use of the school as a centre of community activity.

Since September the following contributions have been made by the Co-ordinator throughout the county:

a) A survey in Marmora in the spring of this year was conducted by a committee composed of representatives from home and school, recreation committee, clergy and interested citizens. A need for the use of the school by that community, was established and three programs were offered in the spring, commencing in March, for a ten week period. They proved most successful and it is tentative of the committee in Marmora to continue to expand their program in the fall of 1971.

— A group in Deseronto included a large segment of the population. The co-ordinator along with three university students, lived in the community for two weeks to conduct a survey on a house to house basis and then presented the findings to a selected committee. At this date no further action has been taken by the committee in Deseronto but it now has an excellent idea of the type of program which could meet the needs of the people of Deseronto in the likelihood that action may be forthcoming.

— A request was received from the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve Recreation Committee to meet with them and discuss the feasibility of constructing a swimming pool on the reserve. To date two meetings have been held with the committee and some valuable technical information and resource material was made available.

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

Step 1

Schools make excellent community centres for the following reasons:

- 1) They are located to serve neighbourhoods.
- 2) They have facilities adaptable to broad community use.
- 3) They are owned and supported by the public.
- 4) They are non-political.

Mr. Dan Garvie, Superintendent, Youth & Recreation Branch, Ontario Department of

SKI CLUB NEEDS MORE MEMBERS

The MacCullough Mountain Ski Club, which operates on the Prince Edward Conservation area land, needs new members.

Club members are currently working on the slopes.

Application forms may be obtained from Box 740, Pictou.

Education, states that some of the benefits of a community school program could be—
a) To enable parents and other adults in the community to gain an understanding of the school program and its relevance to the community;
b) The opportunity for the development of neighbourhood spirit using the school as a focal point where people may meet to discuss the issues important to them and their families;
c) The opportunity for the majority of our population who are not able to articulate their needs to participate in the public and social organizations of our communities;
d) To develop a pride of ownership in our schools and other public buildings.

Step II

Although basic educational opportunities can be provided within the school building, it is not wise to conclude the "learning" can only take place in the building per se. We must consider using the entire community as a laboratory for learning.

We have taken the initial steps in this direction by having key people come into the school for various purposes. We have also begun to broaden our out-of-school activities in a number of useful ways.

What is now proposed, is the development of a closer relationship between the school and the community by making a direct approach to the community for help in providing educational opportunities. Discussion should start now with the school personnel and members of the working community to establish possible ways and means of getting the student out into the community for learning purposes.

RECOMMENDATIONS

It is recommended that the Board of Education
a) continue to maintain its interest and promotion of the School-Community use of buildings and resources.
b) explore the use of community resources and ascertain how these resources may complement the school in providing a complete "learning for living" experience.
c) continue to provide professional leadership in furthering the development of the School-Community Concept in Hastings County.

Mayor Sharpe is returned

James Sharpe, mayor of Deseronto for the past four years, won his first victory at the polls on Monday. Acclaimed as mayor for the previous two terms, Mayor Sharpe was this year given a resounding vote of confidence by Deseronto voters, by a large majority. Mayor Sharpe said that he had hoped to win the election, but was completely surprised at having such a large majority (the figures were 470-134).

Mrs. McCullough, who resigned her post as councillor in order to run in the mayoralty race, took her defeat graciously.

Mayor Sharpe says that he has two primary aims to which he will devote his energies over the next term. The first is to get more financial assistance from government for the newly installed sewage system. At the present time, the province is paying approximately 50% of the total cost or about $750,000. Mayor Sharpe plans to solicit additional funds from the Federal government as he feels that the remainder of the cost, normally paid by the municipality, is still too much of a burden for Deseronto taxpayers.

In addition, Mayor Sharpe intends to encourage housing, development in Deseronto, to create a broader tax base. The town still owns considerable vacant land which can be used for this purpose, and it is Mayor Sharpe's contention that this land should be offered at a minimal cost in order to encourage development. The town needs industry too, but he feels that additional housing will more readily add to the tax base.

In the contest for P.U.C. commissioner, Adrian McCormick won over Frank Topping, incumbent, by 350 votes to 246.

For the four vacant positions on council, the following were elected: Edgar Gordanier (337) Jim McVicker (322), John Mitchell (296) and Fletcher Vick (283). Defeated were Percy Brooks (276) and Peter Dickinson (262).

The turn-out at the polls was greater than it has been in several years, according to Town Clerk, Sam Knapp. This year's percentage of the 1056 eligible voters was about 57%, whereas last year only about 43% turned out.

Apartment sold

Bayview Apartments, in Deseronto formerly the old high school, has been sold to a party in Belleville, by Fraser and O'Neil. Closing date is December 31st.

AAI presents paper

In last week's Scanner, a brief report was given of the AIAI conference held in Bantford on November 27th, at which The Hon. Jean Chrétien was present to hear the Association's counter-proposal to the Federal Government's White Paper, issued in June 1969.

In fact, the Association members dislike the term counter-proposal; instead they call their 66-page submission a "position paper." It is an excellent and thorough paper, the product of almost two years of research, deliberation and writing, and the "powers that be" would do well to implement some, if not all, of the Associations' suggestions without wasting any more time.

In the following few weeks it is the editor's intention to publish a slightly shortened version of the paper, in installments for the edification of our readers and hopefully for the advancement of the cause.

In the introduction to the position paper the reason for the founding of the Association and its working principles are clearly stated, as follows:

The Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians was formed, primarily, as a political organization to represent its member Bands in any negotiation or consultation with any level of government affecting the welfare of the member Bands as a whole.

After the Federal Government enunciated its policy on Indian Affairs in June of 1969, the Minister responsible made the statement that in discussing this policy, he would only deal with Indian Associations. This was an entirely new concept in dealing with the Indians. Prior to this, each Reserve was a separate entity, usually separated by some distance from each other and with very little communication between them, except by individual members, in a social way. There was no existing organization which represented any of the member Bands. If a Band could only be heard through an Association, it was decided to form such an Association.

After a few preliminary meetings, the following Bands: St. Regis, Tyendinaga, Oneida, Six Nations, Mississauga, formed the Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians. The Gibson Band, by Resolution of its Council, gave its support to the Association. The Marvorn Band, by Band Resolution, applied for and was received into membership of the Association.

Caughnawaga had representatives at the preliminary meetings but it was felt that since they were in Quebec, they could better be served through the Quebec association, of which they were a member.

The Bands are represented by their elected Chief and members of their Council and any administrative officers, if the Band Council so decides. Since the administrative officers are salaried officers of the Council, and not subject to frequent changes, it would give some continuity to the Association, as the members of Band Council are elected and subject to change.

Any Band may apply for membership in the Association, by Band resolution. Since the founding members were predominantly Iroquois, hence the name but if the membership becomes such that a more appropriate name will be required, the name may be changed.

It is the intention of the Association to only present what may be called a "position paper" at this time. It is not the intention to try and come up with an over all solution as this would be impossible due to the many diverse and complex problems. However, the members of the Association will continue their deliberations and will recommend how their suggestions may be implemented either within the framework of the present legislation or by amending legislation at a later presentation.

The Association may be criticized for not hiring trained experts to assist them. But to

Hobby Shop to open Monday

What's your hobby? If you don't have one already, the odds are ten to one you will have one at the end of the winter, if not sooner.

Maurice Marin, who has recently moved here from the St. Catharines - Hamilton area believes that there is a need, in this area for a good hobby supply shop. And he's not waiting any time setting one up. open next Monday in Deseronto next to Stedman's Store, it's called "The Makers Hobby Supply Shop."

As an energetic young graduate in psychology from University of Toronto (1971) and one concerned with the social aspects of the current unemployment situation, Maurice feels that by providing a wide assortment of hobby and craft materials he may be able to help people to enjoy life a little more. Nursing home residents, of which there are several in this area, is also benefit from the ready availability of hobby materials as well as members of local hobby and craft associations and individuals with increasing leisure time.

When asked why he chose to set up shop in Deseronto, Maurice replied that he believes Deseronto has a great future. "It's bound to grow, if the people have the right attitude and show imagination and willingness to take a chance once in a while." He admitted that he always has been a gambler, and enjoys nothing unless a challenge is involved. In order to set up business, he sold his car, his bike, his boat and his TV set.

Although he and his wife and five month old son have been here only a short time, he finds Deseronto a friendly town. He must prefer to live away from the busy urban centres.

Maurice has several hobbies himself, including oil painting, copper tooling and model trains. Other interests include writing and photography. While on under graduate, he worked on "The Varsity" staff for two years. He was also active in the Young Liberals Association.

In his shop, which will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. six days a week, Maurice will stock supplies and equipment for lapidary, leather craft, bead work, woodcarving and wood working, candle making wax flower making, as well as knitting and sewing kits, scale model kits, styrofoam and decoupage kits, artist's supplies, coins and stamps, and a wide range of "how-to" books.

Next Saturday a special demonstration of candle making will be given by Mike Barrett of Belleville. Demonstrations of other hobbies and crafts are being arranged for successive Saturdays. "Nothing to do in Deseronto?"

What do YOU want for Christmas?

Lots of good things...and ten to one you can afford most of them.

But what would you want for Christmas if you were a Peruvian farm labourer working the soil of a vast rancho for as little as 65 cents a day...or a fisherman in the Philippines trying to feed, clothe and shelter a family on $336 a year...or the head of an East African family looking forward to an income of $125 in 1972?

It's not just a matter of money or the lack of it. OXFAM CANADA's concern is what lies BEHIND the lack of earning power...and what can be done to change the situation.

What CAN be done? Do we wrap up piles of Canadian Christmas goodies and ship them off to people in the developing world? No...because it won't help. Hand-outs are not the answer to anything.

What people in developing countries need and want is tools and knowledge so they can help themselves. And they WILL help themselves...they'll feed, clothe, educate and shelter themselves...carry out their responsibilities as citizens of the world...if you give them a START...through OXFAM-sponsored Self-Help Projects.

Consider the fisherman in Santa Cruz.

On the mountainous island of Mindanao in the Philippines, the fisherman of Santa Cruz Parish earn an average of $136 annually. On an income of $336 a year you live in a small grass hut, depend on rain for drinking water and eat little more than corn and fish. Life is not exactly rosy and when you're hit by a typhoon, and when your fishing canoes, homes and possessions are totally destroyed, your life is ended...you're wiped out. You have no reserve from which to re-build. Unless, of course, someone wants to help you. Rev. Henri Veilleux of the Foreign Mission Society of Quebec, his family and friends wanted to help. To date, they've replaced 50 of the 500 fishing canoes that were destroyed. A $2,000 grant from OXFAM CANADA is helping build 50 more motorized canoes which the fisherman will buy. Reports from Santa Cruz indicate that the fisherman have started to rebuild their industry, their homes, their lives. They're even planning a fishing co-operative. They've been given their start...and they're well on the way to finishing the job of reconstruction themselves.

And what of the family in East Africa?

On an income of $125 annually, with no hospital insurance and only one doctor for every 708,000 people you haven't much hope of obtaining adequate medical service. The gap is being filled by the East Africa Flying Doctor Service, one of the most exciting projects being funded by OXFAM.

Dr. Michael Wood, head of the East Africa Flying Doctor Service, has flown 500,000 miles, performed 10,000 surgical operations and accepted hundreds of "house calls" from bushland outposts 250 miles or more from his base in Nairobi...all this in 10 years.

The conditions under which Dr. Wood works are described as difficult. His tiny plane flies over craggy mountains, in during indescribable buffeting from wind currents. He lands where he can. If there's a landing strip, even one full of potato holes, he considers himself a lucky man.

His job is overwhelming. It encompasses all phases of medicine from complicated plastic surgery...to trying to convince a mother that she can prevent blindness simply by keeping her child's eyes clean. It ranges from curative medicine such as treating a man bitten by a hyena to trying to inaugurate preventive medicine programs in Ethiopia where medical conditions are like those encountered "in the Middle Ages...there's smallpox, cholera, yellow fever, even plague."

At Christmas time we talk a lot about love and compassion and goodwill towards men. But talking isn't enough. Nobody can gift-wrap all the good things of Canadian life and mail them to people in underdeveloped countries. And nobody should.

Underdeveloped people don't want gifts. They want a START—a chance to HELP THEMSELVES. That is the gift YOU can give...the START.

You may or never meet any of the people you help in person. But they know you're there. In the words of a fisherman's wife in Santa Cruz, "Father, you and your organization should never die...after the last typhoon we were all thinking to die. Thank you...and thank you also very much to your organization of Canada--OXFAM."

Accompanying the happy words came two big fish—one for the director of the Project and one for the Director of OXFAM.

What do YOU want for Christmas???

date the Indians have been studied and surveyed with what result? If only a fraction of the time, money and effort spent on these studies and surveys were used in the proper way, the lot of the Indian would be considerably improved. Most of the studies and surveys were done by professional and academic personnel with no report or feedback to the Indian people themselves. These surveys and reports have not been acted upon and consequently are of no great assistance except to the people who did them.

It is not the intention of the Association to rehash the information contained in these surveys and reports, as the "powers that be" should be aware of the information contained in them, and repetition would not serve any useful purpose. Nor is it the intention of the Association to belabour the past. Every Parliamentary Committee, Royal Commission, and what have you, for the 150 years of investigating Indian Affairs have reported and recommended that "something be done" to help the Indian better his lot in life.

The Indian holds a unique position in the political system of Canada. This was established in the very earliest dealings with the Native people. It was written into the British North America Act under which "Indians and lands reserved for the Indians" was placed under the sole jurisdiction of the Federal Government. It is imperative that this unique position be maintained. Canada would lose something very vital and historic, if a course of action was taken which would do away with it.

All the Association is asking is that the Federal Government live up to its obligations and recognize its responsibility that it has sole jurisdiction over Indians and lands reserved for the Indians. If the property and civil rights of the Indians were to be a Provincial matter, the British North America Act would have no legislation.

The member bands of this Association haven't too much quarrel with the Indian Act. Without it, there would have been no protection of the Reserve lands.

Economic, educational and cultural programs can be carried on within the framework of the existing legislation with only a few minor amendments. It is not the existing legislation that is at fault. Mr. John MacDonald, then Deputy Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, in giving evidence on January 20th, 1970, before a Special Senate Committee on Poverty, explained where the fault lies, in that "We have misjudged the degree of competence required in human relationships, and in the evolution and implementation of effective policies."

VANDALISM AT PEACE PARK

Vandals desecrated the Peace Pagoda Shrine at the Lester B. Pearson Peace Park, near Mar-mora between the time the park closed on October 1 and late November according to information received by Roy Cadwell, Chairman.

Inverted three-forked crosses were smeared on the shrine below the inscription from Isaiah 2:4, "and they shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks, nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

"This is the type of thing that makes one wonder if there will ever be peace in the world", commented Mr. Cadwell.

"Occurring at a time when we are approaching the Christmas season it is even more deplorable. All thinking persons must condemn this type of action."

The matter is being reported to the Provincial Police at Madoc in the hope that this sacrilege of a dedicated peace shrine will not be repeated.

Quinte-Kingston study is under way

Most residents of the Quinte area feel they are lucky to be living in a part of Ontario so richly endowed with natural amenities. With our miles of shoreline and acres of space, we have something that is envied by those living in the highly urbanized areas of the Province. And yet there is much that could be done in protecting and developing these amenities, largely, as yet, undeveloped. If growth and development is not planned but just grows, our waters may become totally unfit for fishing or bathing, our shorelines may become eyesores, and our acres of good farmland may become unfit for food production.

With these problems in mind, a study of the Quinte-Kingston area is now being undertaken by a group of Civil service personnel from both the Provincial and Federal governments. This study is only a part of the CORTS study (Canada Ontario-Rideau-Trent-Severn) which was launched initially by the Federal Government to examine the existing canal system. After an agreement with the Province of Ontario, the study area included the entire Trent, Rideau and Severn systems, along with related land areas. The initial report which was published in June did not include the Quinte and Lake

Joe Reynolds, Peter Dickinson and Reeve George Lyons represented Deseronto at the meeting called by the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council to discuss the Kingston-Quinte Study, at Loyalist College, November 24th.

TOWN OF DESERONTO

RE: SANITARY SEWER CONNECTIONS

It is now permissible for all property owners in the Town of Deseronto to install private sewer lines to the STREET LATERALS. HOWEVER, DO NOT HOOK UP to your building sewer yet. Permits are required for any work in regards to plumbing, sewers, etc. Application forms are available at the Town Offices or from the contracting firms doing this type of private installations.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT WILL BE MADE IN THE NEAR FUTURE ADVISING OF THE DATE THAT THE SEWER SYSTEM WILL BE IN OPERATION.

TOWN OF DESERONTO.

Simcoe areas, as it was felt these two should be treated separately.

Recommendations in the initial report dealt with such things as improved canals, accommodations and services along the route. One major problem was the rapid absorption of waterfrontage into private cottage development. It was pointed out that cottage subdivisions with shared waterfrontage, and more public access to waterfrontage should be planned.

Within the area involved, there are over 140 jurisdictions including municipal, provincial and federal bodies. The study group, dealing primarily with the water routes and adjoining recreational facilities, is interested in hearing comments and suggestions from private individuals and organizations. With this aim, a meeting organized by LORDC (the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council) was called on November 24th at Loyalist College. The public was invited and 1100 invitations were mailed out. Seventy people were in attendance.

Several of those attending had sent in written submissions, including suggestions and comments prior to the meeting. Several of these were read at the meeting, including one from William West, president of the Bay of Quinte Regional Tourist Council. Another, from the town of Deseronto, listed the following suggestions:

1. Priority given in acceleration of corrective measures to overcome pollution in the Bay of Quinte, in order to restore Deseronto's recreational facilities and commercial fishing which has not existed since 1946.

2. Location of new light industry, in or near the Town of Deseronto, to help alleviate the cash for services recently expanded.

3. Development of a Motel on the Bay of Quinte in Deseronto, similar to the Four Seasons in Belleville and the Holiday Inn in Kingston.

We trust that the above recommendations will receive your kind consideration.

Deseronto was the only municipality officially represented. Other groups represented were conservation group, chambers of commerce, tourist promotion groups, and government departments, from Kingston, Picton and Prince Edward County, Peterborough and the Belleville-Trent area.

Written submissions are still welcome. The eventual result should be a long range plan, which will tie in with County plans, the Quinte plan and the provincial government's Central Ontario plan.

Major points already recommended in the CORTS study are: 1) freedom from pollution, 2) preservation of historic and natural interest sites and 3) adequate public access to waterfrontage. The actual suggestions is that 25 per cent of all shoreline be public property in a ratio of at least one unit per mile.

According to Don Farmer, co-chairman of the CORTS study: "You are within a day's drive of 50 million people. You should be ready for them if and when they come."

Paul Wyatt, director of the Quinte-Kingston survey, stated that the study group is willing to meet with any interested organizations, public or voluntary, to receive their suggestions or simply to explore what it is all about.

Anyone wishing to contact the study group to arrange meeting or send along written briefs, may do so at the following address:

Over at Frank's Place

Hey, I just got to thinkin' that I just went ahead and wrote to you all last week in this here Scanner and none of you knows the first thing about me. So I better tell you a few things I guess. But get this straight, I'm not gonna tell you who I am or where Frank's place is. I got enough problems of my own and if you knew who I was then I'd find out all about your problems too. And another thing, I'm always gain' to change names around "to protect the innocent" as they say on that program on the TV. This way I can say what I want with nobody figurin' I had no business to write such a thing about so and so.

For example if I told you that Jack strained his back last week and he says that he did it trying to pull a goat stuck in the mud but that he has a big grin on his face when he says it, and if I left it at that, well, you might get all kinds of ideas about Jack and that wouldn't be fair, now would it.

I suppose I ought to warn the young folks not to study what I write for a lesson in spelling. I didn't get much schoolin'. Just got enough to read the paper and count my money when I got some! The rest I learned from the school of life, as they say.

Now, back in the thirties the missus and I figured the proper thing to do was get married, so we did. Didn't have much money then, still don't have much to that matter, but we managed to raise four kids and they're all on their own now. It's been hard gain' but we've got a fair to middlin' good house that's heated with a furnace. About eight years ago we put in the water works; at my age those winter trips to the outside privy (the proper people call it that) were gettin' hard on my lumbago. For those of you too young to know, that's when you got rheumatism in the small of your back. What with the lumbago, like I said, those cold walks outside in winter got too much for me. Since I couldn't change what I had to do even if it was winter, well I changed what I could and that was to put plumbin' in the house.

We live on the farm, just the two of us. I switched to beef cows a little while back. Always had milk cows before, but with all them regulations the gov'ment came out with -- and not an honest-to-God farmer in the bunch of them. --- well, I figured I'd better get into somethin' where I could be on my own. Besides, milking cows regular was gettin' to be too much for me.

I just walked to the kitchen to get a drink (relax it was just water) and noticed the window over on the East side is leaking again. Good thing ma's up in bed restin' or she'd be after me. Meant to fix that goldrained leak all summer too. But as the old saying goes: when it's rainy it's not time to, and when it's sunny there's no need to.

Now I've forgotten what else I was gain' to say. Mebbe just as well I probably wouldn't have interested you anyhow.

So long, neighbours.
FRANK.

Hemline economy is an old theory... Supposedly, short skirts mean a boom and long skirts mean a recession. Yet, Robert E. Nolan of Serge A. Birm Co., Inc., a specialist in improving office productivity says his studies show that neither hot pants nor the miniskirt helps office efficiency.

Mr. Nolan prepared some figures on hot pants vs. miniskirts. He concludes that the average store at a miniskirt is 89 seconds in dressing to 54 seconds for hot pants. He recommends that both be banned from the office and a more modest dresscode be adopted in the name of efficiency, but Mr. Nolan takes into account the fact that if women cannot wear the proper clothes, the economy will suffer. That's particularly true if they are not allowed to show a real gain of about 2 1/2 in 1971, claims the Public Relations Board.

Mrs. Kay Hood -
396-2119

Mr. & Mrs. Murray Dimmell of Willowdale, were Saturday guests of Mr. Dimmell's mother Mrs. C. F. Dimmell, St. George Street.

On Saturday, Dec. 4th, the Presbyterian Explorer group, (eight young girls) and their leader, Mrs. Kay Hood, spent the day in Kingston. Mr. Henry Klaver so kindly drove them in. He never refuses when asked, and they appreciate that very much. They arrived in Kingston around eleven o'clock, and had lunch at Mrs. Violet Barbier's (Mrs. Hood's sister). After lunch they all took a bus downtown to a "Children's Matinee" at the Odeon Theatre. Around three o'clock, after they came out of the theatre, they took another bus to the Shopping Centre. They were all given money for treats and spent some time going through the stores. Mr. Klaver arrived around four o'clock to take them home. Everyone said they had a good time, and hoped they could do it again some time.

Engagement

Mr. & Mrs. Ernest Dorey are happy to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Marie, to Peter McLachlan, eldest son of Mr. & Mrs. Paul McLachlan, Harlow, England. Marriage to take place on Dec. 17th in Our Lady of Fatima Church, Harlow, England.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

The Christmas Bazaar of the Deseronto U.C.W. was held Saturday, December 4th, with a large attendance. The booths were decorated in Christmas colours, and the tea tables with angel centre-pieces, made and donated by Mrs. Hendry.

The following ladies poured tea: Mrs. Frank Bell, Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. McCullough, Mrs. Mervin Sherman, Mrs. Francis Kelloher; at the candy table were Mrs. Ross Sexsmith, Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Sandra Godfrey. At the cooking table were: Mrs. N. Dows, Mrs. J. McEwen, Mrs. M. Cummings. At the white elephant table, Mrs. Walker Mrs. G. Gould, Mrs. Mary Neol. Tea Table: Mrs. C. Moon, Mrs. R. Finland, Mrs. R. Aylsworth, Mrs. M. Watters, Mrs. Harold Calvert, Mrs. D. Deltor, Mrs. V. Boonhour, Mrs. F. Cole, Mrs. Helen Keech, Mrs. Bruce Cuthill. Farmer's Booth: Mrs. C. Rendell, Mrs. P. VanVlack, Mrs. H. McCaul, Fancy - work: Mrs. S. Brown, Mrs. Boyce, Mrs. R. Kimmatt, Mrs. J. Reynolds. Boutique: Mrs. B. Higgin, Mrs. J. Van Vlack.

Receiving guests at the door were Mrs. W. Stuart, Mrs. R. Hawley, Mrs. Hendry and Frances Transue. Mrs. Madeline Thompson and Mrs. Doug Cole helped in the kitchen.

Maybe there is something to the reincarnation theory, judging by the way some people come back to life at quitting time.

a night in Scotland

Mrs. Kay Hood and her sister Mrs. Violet Barbier, with Mrs. J. Harpell, attended the "Night on Scotland" supper and entertainment at St. Andrews Church, Pictou, on Sunday evening, Nov. 28th. Peter and Kim Barbier and Wesley Harpell, took part in the program, while the people were entering the hall, Jack Jones entertained, playing his accordion and singing Scottish songs. Peter Barbier "piped in" the Haggis which was carried in by Wesley Harpell. Mr. George Ross addressed the Haggis.

Following a delicious supper, Kim danced the Highland fling, Jig, Hornpipe and other dances, accompanied by her brother on the bagpipe. This was Wesley's first time of playing with only two pipers but he joined in on one of the numbers. In between numbers Peter explained the various dances and also played a medley of familiar Scottish pieces. Two lovely films on Scotland were shown, which brought to a close a wonderful evening of fellowship and fun.

Quinte Old Timers

The Quinte Old Timers Club of Deseronto held a social evening at the Lion's Hall on Wed. Nov. 17 with Napanee Senior Citizens as guests. Mrs. Ada Clout welcomed at the door, Card games and checkers were played at the first part of the evening. At about 8:30 Charlie Kammer's orchestra arrived, including the following musicians:

Charlie Kammer Bass
Ron Connelly Piano
Don McKinney Drums
Joe Burchill Trumpet
Eric Gustafson Saxophone
Marlene Chartland Vocalist

They provided marvelous entertainment with their renditions of music and jokes. The president, Mr. Gordon Walker spoke words of welcome to the guests and also words of thanks and appreciation to the orchestra. The president of Napanee Senior Citizens' Club, Mrs. W. Coates, responded expressing appreciation for a delightful evening. After the singing of grace, lunch and tea were served to 107 persons, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Clute were present and Mrs. Clute was winner of the door prize.

INDIANS IN NORTH AMERICA FIRST COOKED CRAN- BERRIES.

Surprising as it seems, many of the customs associated with our Canadian Christmas do not originate here. Although we consider the Christmas tree very much a part of Canada it has to come to us from Germany and the Christmas card, from England.

When we plan our Christmas and holiday menus we usually include turkey, cranberries, mince-meat puddings and fruit cakes. Turkey is a native North American dish but plum pudding and mince pies are English. French-Canadians make "Tourtières" (pork pies) and "Bûches de Noël" (rolled cakes frosted to resemble Yule logs), which originated in France.

The cranberry is a fruit native to North America and the early Indians cooked these wild, tart berries with honey or maple syrup. They also dried them to increase their storage properties. Early experiments in the cultivation of cranberries in Canada began in Nova Scotia and some of these early bogs are still in production. Newer cranberry areas are in British Columbia. They are usually sold boxed, with a clear window to show their brilliant coloring. They are also canned as a sauce, made into jelly or juice. In the fresh state they are at their peak during November and December. If desired the fresh berries may be emptied into plastic bags and frozen without further preparation. They will keep for several months.

Cranberries are traditionally associated with poultry, whether at Christmas or any time of the year. The tart sauce of jelly enhances chicken and turkey. However, its delightful coloring and tantalizing flavor make interesting desserts. One such dessert is "Cranberry Cream Mousse", a natural for holiday enjoyment. The recipe for this chilling molded masterpiece is among those found between the covers of the new "Festive Foods" leaflet put out by the home economists at Canada Agriculture Ottawa. It is reproduced here so you can try it out in your pre-Christmas entertaining. An added attraction is that it may be stored in the freezer. For a free copy of "Festive Foods", publication 1407 write to the Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa K1A 0C7.

CRANBERRY CREAM MOUSSE

- 2 cups cranberries
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup water
- 4 eggs yolk
- ½ cup milk
- 2 pint (1 1/2 cups) whipping cream, whipped
- 4 egg whites
- ½ cup sugar
- whipped cream

Combine cranberries, sugar and water; cook until skins have popped (about 10 minutes). Beat egg yolks until thick and

Dear Friend:

While in the city my good-hearted neighbour decided we should take all our pets to the free rabies clinic for their shots. We packed her three shepherds and cat, our Major and shepherd pup and cat (nicely zipped in a bag) all into her car. When Major who loved her, found it was her husband doing the driving, he made the fellow very nervous with his snarling and breathing down his neck. So she moved Major over behind me. Then she had Major and three other dogs, plus her cat on a leash in the back seat.

None of the dogs cared for Major and her cat went into a panic, leaping from back window to seat to her husband's shoulder adding to the confusion.

So I sent back my pup (now she had five dogs) and I took the cat on a leash in my lap, my cat still howling in bag and we set off some 25 miles with all five dogs barking! En route her leashed cat leaped to the dash board and onto her husband's shoulder, a ball of claws—where he became sick and had a bowel movement down our driver's sleeve. I opened the window and stuck my head out, gagging. So we stopped to clean up the mess and onward again.

(I don't know now how) marched in with three dogs, cat on a leash, one in bag, Major, (like looking to bite someone. (He almost got the vet who was used to moving quickly.) We went through a long line up and at last got them all their shots even my cat, who when unzipped leaped out of the bag, got his shot from the vet and seeing all the dogs, leaped back to the safety of his bag. On our way we went.

Can you see me now taking 7 dogs, 5 cats on THAT one trip.

It'll never forget!!!
— Nita Whent.

cream. Add milk and cook until slightly thick. Combine with cranberry mixture and chill until mixture begins to set. Fold in whipped cream. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form, gradually add sugar and continue beating until stiff and glossy. Fold into cranberry mixture and pour into 8-cup mold. Cover and freeze several hours or until firm. Unmold and serve frozen. Garnish with whipped cream if desired. Eight to 10 servings.

Smoke but no fire

A Deseronto resident was impressed on Friday with the cheerful co-operation of the Deseronto Fire Department. Returning to her house just before noon she smelled smoke, but could not locate its source. When she phoned Fire Chief Al Fraser, he offered to send a fireman to check. Arriving almost immediately, the fireman discovered that the source of smoke was an overheated fan motor on the furnace. It might have been serious—a relief to find that it wasn't.

Arena Fund

Since the previous total of donations to the Arena Fund was printed, in the December 1st issue of the Scanner ($27,081.44) additional donations have been received, as listed below:

Walkathon	114.28
Ladies Auxiliary	200.00
Mildred (Hatch) Doyle
Toronto	1,000.00
Canada Malting Co. Ltd.,
Toronto	500.00
T.G. Bright & CO.,
Niagara Falls	500.00
John Labatt Ltd. Toronto
	500.00
W.D. Hatch, St. Catharines
	500.00
Present total	$30,395.72

Of the monies received, the committee's treasurer, Mr. E. Reid, manager of the Bank of Commerce, has purchased a one thousand dollar bond and a five hundred dollar bond. An investment of five thousand at Victoria and Grey Trust, Belleville, has also been made, which will bring interest for the fund.

A total of $85,000 is needed for the proposed building, and according to a committee spokesman construction will not begin until this amount is in sight.

FORMER RESIDENT ACTIVE FOR ARENA FUND

The Deseronto Community Centre Board and its Fund Raising Committee are indebted to a former resident of Deseronto Mr. Clifford Hatch, for his efforts in raising funds for the proposed community centre building.

Since Nov. 1st, Mr. Hatch's efforts have resulted in $5,000. being added to the fund from members of the Hatch family and their business interests.

A Board spokesman said "Most people would give a donation and feel they had done their share. Mr. Hatch forwarded his personal donation and proceeded to raise additional funds for us. We are most grateful for his interest and assistance."

Claims and Treaties

The following which is the second installment of a series, presenting a slightly abridged version of the position paper presented to the Hon. Jean Chretien by the Association of Innu and Allied Indians, was prepared by Chief Earl Hill of the Tyndinaga Mohawks.

The member Bands of the Association used practically all of Southern Ontario as their hunting grounds, and their claim to the aboriginal right to the land is not to be taken lightly.

After the American Revolution, Britain's Indian allies settled permanently in Southern Ontario. It was Britain's policy to recognize the existence of Native rights in the lands they occupied. Consequently, the British policy was not to occupy land until certain Native rights in it had been surrendered or removed. However, this policy was subject to the overriding provision in the Proclamation of 1763, that the Indians had to surrender the land to the Crown to be sold or leased.

The Innu and other members of the Association came to Southern Ontario after the American Revolution and either bought or were given grants of land in compensation for the losses of lands held in what became the United States, because of their alliance with the British Government.

These tracts were well defined and the Indians took it for granted that their tenure of this land would be the same tenure as they held in their homeland, namely, complete sovereignty. The Imperial Government took the stand that these grants were subject to the Proclamation of 1763, and this is basically the underlying cause of the discord even today.

Then in 1850, the Government arbitrarily set the boundaries of Indian Reserve lands in Southern Ontario, irrespective of whether the lands had been surrendered or not. What surrendered lands remain unsold, even the Government does not know, and no surrendered lands should be sold until the claims of the Indians are settled.

Hansel and Gretel

CHILDREN PERFORM FOR CHILDREN

A treat is in store for your children when you take them to see Hansel and Gretel this Saturday evening, December 18th. The hour-long production directed by Mrs. Henry Latz, formerly of Prince Edward County, now of Toronto is performed by members of County Play House, a group of children ranging in age from four to twelve.

The performance takes place at 7 p.m. at Queen Elizabeth Public School in Picton.

The Imperial Government, and after 1860, the Canadian Government, continued the policy of obtaining surrenders of Indian land, and even put Indian Affairs under the Crown Lands Department, and sold the lands so surrendered with the proceeds to be held in trust for the supposed use and benefit of the Indian Bands. By this policy, the Government acted as trustee for the Indians and should now account for its trusteeship.

At the time of Confederation, this trusteeship was continued by the Federal Government, and it was given sole jurisdiction over "Indians and lands reserved to the Indians."

In 1871 and in subsequent years, Treaties were made with the Indians, under which the Government acquired certain Native rights to Western Canada, Northern parts of Ontario and Quebec, in return for certain annuities, but reserving to the Indians the right to hunt and fish over the unceded and any of the unsold ceded territory.

But the Government has been very remiss in its trusteeship not protecting this right, either against Provincial legislation or International agreements such as the Migratory Birds Act.

The Government legislated the rights it had reserved to the Indians of hunting and fishing, out of existence. It is very elementary law that you cannot be (continued on page 3)

MASTER PLAN FOR STUDY

The preliminary master plans for the Macaulay Mountain conservation area were presented to the Prince Edward Conservation authority at their meeting last Wednesday.

James Stansbury presented the plans to the authority members for discussion and study.

The proposed area is on the edge of Picton and consists of approximately 450 acres of land.

The plan showed provision for many various recreational facilities. Plans for a two-mile snowmobile and hiking route were followed by a lengthy discussion concerning snowmobiles on the site.

Provision has been made for skiing, tobogganing and bird watching. The ski slopes already in use are among the best in the county.

There is a unique quarry which will be maintained for geological study. The small lake or pond will provide seasonal study of aquatic ecology.

FULL TIME MANAGER IS DENIED

The Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority has been turned down in its bid to acquire a full time resources manager, for 1972.

The authority made application for a full time manager in conjunction with its proposed 1972 budget, and was advised by letter of the full authority meeting Wednesday night that a lack of qualified staff exists in the department to meet the request.

Since its formation several years ago, the authority has shared a resources manager with the Napanee River Authority.

The present resource manager on a split time basis is Ken Musculow.

PROCEED WITH DAM AT DEMORESTVILLE

The Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority will proceed with a temporary dam at Demorestville providing the necessary land can be acquired.

Members Wednesday night adopted an executive committee recommendation to authorize the executive to acquire land at the appraised price. It was also reported that the land involved had not yet been appraised.

They are to be commended for the fine job they have done over the autumn months of clearing and levelling the land area surrounding their plant, from Main Street to the waterfront. Much unsightly brush has been cleared and the grounds levelled and filled. Plant manager, Ray McDonald, says they will plant grass and trees in the spring. With an effort such as this to make a more progressive looking town, the appearance of Deseronto's waterfront is certainly improving. The town's new sewage disposal plant is also very trim looking, surrounded by a spacious lawn area.

Other corporate property owners of sections of Deseronto's waterfront, such as the Deseronto PUC and the Canadian National Railroad might do well to follow suit. There is "wasteland" between Main Street and the shore, which definitely detracts from the appearance of the town as a whole.

A WISE DECISION

In ruling that snowmobiles will not be allowed on the Rideau Trail from Kingston to Ottawa, members of the Rideau Trail Association have made a wise decision. Clearly, as association president, Dr. Fred Cooke, has said, "Snowmobiles are incompatible with what we are trying to do."

In view of the deterioration of our environment and the increasing pressures of industrialization and population every citizen should understand the importance of parks and open areas where nature can be heard and observed. Human beings need opportunities to get away from the noise and machinery of modern life. The 200-mile Rideau Trail provides just such an opportunity.

Silence, as Dr. Cooke has emphasized, is hard to find these days. One of the charms of deep winter is the silence of the countryside. An observer can find can penetrate this silence and foot can find evidence of wildlife which has adapted itself to the season. But each year these open areas are increasingly being violated by roaring snowmobiles. And most of those who use these machines are not those who flocked to the outdoors when there were no snowmobiles. This would seem self-evident because they certainly do not go there now to enjoy nature. They go there to operate snowmobiles.

By including the no-snowmobile regulation in its condition, the Rideau Trail Association is endeavouring to protect something rare and valuable. It should have the support of the authorities. The snowmobile is not compatible with the purposes of the Rideau Trail or the aims of conservation.

-----Whig Standard

Editors Note:

We wonder how those laying plans for the Quinte Trail, between Picton and Bancroft can reasonably expect a multi-purpose combined nature trail and snowmobile course to work. If snowmobiles are in the area, it is a certainty that the wildlife won't be.

Obviously, we want to get snowmobiles off the highways, where they are presently a menace to themselves and to other vehicular traffic. But let's not try to lump them together with other outdoor nuts, such as hikers and cross-country skiers, out to enjoy a little peace and quiet in the woods, on a sunny Sunday afternoon.

embarrassed

Dear Friend--

This is a formal apology to our Scanner publisher, who while delivering me my Christmas cards (nicely printed by him) was nabbed by Major who has not gotten into the "Christmas spirit."

I felt just terrible after writing about the dog. And feel he'll never win apopularity contest biting the person who was good enough to put him in print! And even though Dave Taylor was very gracious about the whole thing, saying, "Major was just doing his job", the dog is in the cellar doing penitence, howling.

Dave suggests I put Major down on a Christmas Eve, so Santa will never make it here.

If by chance you spot Santa with his red underwear showing up I'll know why (or perhaps he carries dog bones in his pack for such emergencies). It would be a drafty trip back to the north pole.

HAPPINESS

I have only known one who had enough wisdom to say, "with-out reservations, that he had enough money, and he was the only one of the lot who seemed to me to be happy. As for fame, it too is limited and fame in one realm will undoubtedly be obscurity in another."

Even Infamy is not absolute. I recall that in 1943, when the war was well into its fourth year, and the air raids were a nightly horror, an old woman was discovered in London who had never heard of Hitler. If you are going to be famous, it will happen without forcing and it may be less fun than you expected.

As for happiness, which so many people talk about as if it were a measurable quality, and of the same substance for everybody, I am sure you do not need to be told that it is always a byproduct. It is probably a matter of temperament, and for anything I know it may be glacial. But it is not something that can be demanded from life, and if you are not happy, you had better stop worrying about it, and find out what treasures you can pick from your own brand of unhappiness.

Attention, Snowmobilers!

A meeting has been called for all snow machine owners and operators on December 15th (to-night) at the Deseronto Public School at 7:30 p.m. sharp.

The attendance of every snowmobile operator is an absolute must if the operation of snowmobiling is to continue in Deseronto.

I would like to point out that when a complaint is laid to our Council, they have NO CHOICE but to investigate its source. If these costly and time consuming complaints do continue they will have no alternative but to eliminate snow-machines from operating in the Town altogether. I think that the Council and the Public have been very considerate in the past and I feel a great burden could be removed from our Council's shoulders if we would all abide each and every By-Law that we have set down. We should stop to consider the main problems listed below if such a By-Law is passed in this Municipality.

- (1) Every snow-mobile would have to be transported to the outside of the Town limits.
- (2) Winter parking of vehicles and trailers on rural roads is very limited.
- (3) The work involved in loading and unloading machines would not warrant short periods of running.

I know that each and every one of us would not like to see such a by-law passed and we know that it is within our Council's power to pass such a by-law. It has been strongly pointed out to me that such a By-Law is in the not-too-distant future unless every operator of a machine give their full support and co-operation and Residence.

Remember it will not be the Council that will be removing our privileges, it will be each and every one of us.

Please endeavor to attend this very important meeting to help us eliminate these problems

Mrs. Kay Hood -
396-2119

On Sunday evening, members of her family and friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Howard Howard, for a surprise birthday party. Her grand daughter, Mrs. Wendy Jeffrey of Napanee, had a birthday on Monday, so they celebrated together. Many gifts were received. Refreshments were served which included a lovely birthday cake. Everyone had a very enjoyable evening.

"Thelphinspirations", a group of gospel singers from Guelph will take part in the 2 p.m. service at the Church of the Redeemer, on Sunday, Dec. 19. Everyone enjoys the singing and playing of these four young men, and any one who would care to come are welcome.

Members of the Explorer group of the Presbyterian church are still collecting used stamps to be sold, the money used for "Zephyr". This is one of their mission projects. Please don't throw away the envelopes from your Christmas cards, we can use the stamps. Their leader is Mrs. Kay Hood; let her know and someone will pick them up.

The Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian Church held their Christmas Party at the church on Thursday, Dec. 9. There was a "Pot Luck" supper at 6:30, followed by a short meeting with devotions and singing of Carols. Roll call was answered with a favourite scripture verse connected with Christmas. Mrs. Kay Hood and Mrs. Blake Moore had contests with small prizes. Mrs. Higgins acted as "Santa" and gave out the gifts under the Christmas tree. This was the last meeting for this year. Next one will be in January, at the home of Mrs. Don MacMillan.

Sunday, Dec. 12 being the last day of the home before leaving to spend Christmas with her son and family, Mr. & Mrs. George C. Minaker of San Diego, California, Mrs. Merton Cummings entertained at a turkey dinner at her home, Mill St. Those who were there were three sisters of Merton Cummings Mrs. Ida Robinson, Belleville Mrs. Myrtle Lloyd, Port Hope and Mrs. Irene Matthews, Napanee. A niece and husband, Mr. & Mrs. Robert Harsfield of Port Hope and daughter Sharline were there as well as Mr. Keith Cloyne, Kingston, Mrs. Marion Knight, Deseronto, Mrs. Millie Burleigh, Deseronto and John Smith, Napanee.

WINE POTTED CHEESE

This is the answer to holiday entertaining. At Christmas, too many nuts and goodies simply "go to waste". A cheese tray with fruits, crisp crackers, and rye breads is a welcome change from the empty calories in nibblers and sweets.

Cheese and wine are all-time favorites. A wide variety of cheese is now made in Ontario, but Cheddar still tops the list in popularity. Food specialists at the Ontario Food Council, Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food, suggest combining Cheddar and port wine in this tested recipe. It keeps well and can be made 2 to 3 weeks before serving. Flavours blend and mellow during storage. Sharp Cheddar has a more crumbly texture because it is aged longer and will make a smoother spread.

POT WINE POTTED CHEESE

1 pound medium or sharp Cheddar finely grated
1 tablespoon port wine
2 tablespoons unsalted butter
1 cup port wine

Combine grated cheese and 1 tablespoon port. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Cream cheese and butter. Gradually add 2 cup port, creaming until blended. Place in a pottery crack, cover and refrigerate. Bring to room temperature to serve. Makes 2 1/2 cups.

Serve in a buffet with crackers and rye bread, or make and give as a gift.

Tyendinaga

Confirmation was held December 12th at All Saints Church Tyendinaga Reserve. The Rt. Rev. J. B. Creggan, Bishop of Ontario, administered the sacrament, assisted by the Rev. C. J. Betts. Fifteen were confirmed and one received into the church.

Mr. Floyd Hill is a patient in Belleville General Hospital. All wish him a speedy recovery.

Master Calvin LeFort won the money doll at the draw held recently. The proceeds will go to the Ladies' Guild of both Anglican churches on the Reserve.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Maracle attended a funeral in Toronto last week-end.

Election Day is Saturday, December 18th, 1971 for chief and council. Hoping all will come out and support their candidates.

Mrs. June Maracle is a patient in Belleville General Hospital, Room 706.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Maracle from Tonawanda, NY spent last weekend visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Nora Maracle is still a patient in Belleville General Hospital. We all wish her a speedy recovery.

TOWN OF

Mr. Ralph Lawlor,
President,
Deseronto Trail Blazers,
(Snowmobile Club)
DESERONTO, Ontario.

Re: Town Of Deseronto By-Law Number 5-70

Dear Mr. Lawlor:

As you will no doubt recall, the above-referenced By-Law was enacted in January, 1970, after incorporating the recommendations of your Club, the prime concern being for the privacy and safety of the general public in Deseronto.

At the Town Council meeting on December 7th, 1971, after several complaints from ratepayers were discussed with regard to contravention of this By-Law due to excessive speeds, noise, routes used and the late hours of operating snow machines in the Town, a Motion was passed, that this regulating By-Law be brought to the attention of your Club and published, together with this letter, in the local newspaper, requesting that Club members and all owners of snowmobiles in the Town to adhere to the By-Law.

You can appreciate that enforcement of the By-Law by the Police Department could be costly to all concerned, therefore, if the co-operation of all owners is not forthcoming, then a more severe By-Law will be necessary - perhaps even the prohibiting of snowmobiles being used in the Town.

Thanking you for your co-operation in the past.

Yours very truly,

S. E. Knapp, Clerk-Treasurer

Archives purchases Marmora map

(The following article, taken from the Marmora Herald may be of interest to our readers whether or not they are in possession of old letters, maps, diaries, and so forth.)

DEPARTMENT RECORDS PURCHASES LOCAL MAP

In September an article and picture of a rare map belonging to Mrs. Manley Lavender appeared in the Marmora Herald.

The map, dated 1846, is the only known one of its kind and came into Mrs. Lavender's possession when her uncle, James Wilson of British Columbia, died.

The authenticity of the map has been verified by officials of the Archives in Ottawa.

The village of Marmora appears on the map in quite large letters which we used to indicate that Marmora was, at that time, quite a good sized community.

The story now has a sequel. This past week Mrs. Lavender sold the map for a nominal sum to Mr. Hugh P. MacMillan, Liaison Officer for the Department of Records and Archives in Toronto, so that the map would be preserved and kept in safe keeping for all time for the benefit of everyone.

Mr. MacMillan travels thousands of miles every year searching for significant early letters and diaries that are descriptive of their period; also newspapers, photographs, maps, municipal records, religious documents, business files, or any other written or pictorial record of Ontario's past.

Often people with an interest in history know where historical manuscripts can be found but have no idea what should be done with them or whom to contact.

Since the formation of the Ontario Archives and Mr. MacMillan as its Liaison Officer, it is now most important that people know about if so important papers can be saved and turned over to the Archives for preservation.

It happens all too often, Mr. MacMillan told Mrs. Lavender, that people either burn or destroy valuable paper when clearing up estates because they don't realize their value.

Mr. MacMillan has contacts throughout the world who are constantly on the lookout for valuable documents and who notify him of any find. Mrs. Lavender's map came to his attention through a man in Smith's Falls who had heard of the story in the Marmora Herald.

Mr. MacMillan phoned Mrs. Lavender and made an appointment to come and see the map:

He convinced Mrs. Lavender that she should part with it and has promised her a photographic copy.

Mrs. Lavender said that Mr. MacMillan is a fascinating person to talk with for he has a wealth of information gathered in his travels.

One of his ancestors was one of the pioneers of the North-West Fur Company and another helped to map parts of West Erie Canada, particularly the Columbia River District, and the State of Washington in the United States.

Mr. MacMillan travelled for 5,000 miles in Britain last year collecting Canadians and has plans to make another trip this year.

At Mrs. Lavender's suggestion that perhaps he could arrange for a speaker from the Archives to come to Marmora, Mr. MacMillan said he would be happy to come himself to address a gathering of interested people in the spring; perhaps April.

In the meantime, he hoped that the people of Marmora would look around their homes, particularly attics, for possible valuable Canadiana and bring it to his attention whenever comes to Marmora.

excused from fulfilling a contract, because of a condition that you yourself created.

Therefore, it is legally and morally wrong for the Government to hide behind these international agreements to which it is a party in denying a right which it had already given to the Indians, that of hunting and fishing on the unsold ceded territory as well as on the ceded territory covered in the several Indian Treaties.

Can these vital matters be rectified? The Indians have suffered terribly in the past and this is the cause of their present plight today. No wonder the Indian has taken the position that every cent being spent on him now is not a gift but only a very small payment for what the Government owes him.

The Federal Government has appointed a Commissioner "to consult with authorized representatives of the Indians and

(a) to receive and study the grievances arising in respect of:

(i) the performance of the terms of treaties and agreements formally entered into by representatives of the Indians and the Crown; and

(ii) the administration of money and lands pursuant to schemes established by legislation for the benefit of the Indians."

In the first place, any treaty or agreement was made with a particular Band of Indians and any discussion, consultation or inquiry should be with the Indians of the particular Band concerned. Of course, the band may appoint representatives to speak for it but that is a prerogative of the Band, not of the Government. Under the present terms of reference, the Government is apparently dealing with the Indian as an individual, whereas it has been traditional Government policy to deal with the Indians as a people. Unless the representatives with whom the Commissioner consults are duly appointed by the Bands concerned, such an inquiry is of no value and would create nothing.

Nane of the claims of the member Bands of the Association come within either of the two classes of grievances into which the Commissioner is appointed to inquire. The Government does not look upon any of the member Bands of the Association as "Treaty Indians", and so our claims do not come under the first class of grievances. Even if the Commissioner interested his terms of reference as sufficiently broad to include the member Bands' claims, there is no assurance that the Tribunal set up to actually hear the claims would take such a view.

So, unless the terms of reference are changed to include any and all land transactions undertaken as a result of surrenders or compulsory taking, the Commission is meaningless to the member Bands of the Association.

Since the trusteeship of our lands was forced upon us, together with the resulting trusteeship of the money derived from the sale, the terms of reference of the Commissioner should be broadened to inquire into such trusteeship. This would put the onus on the Government to prove that its dealings were fair and equitable and in accordance with the laws concerning trustees.

Under these circumstances, the proper procedure would be for the Commissioner to have a preliminary meeting between the appropriate Government Department and the representative of the Band concerned, and the Commissioner would then be in a position to determine what financial assistance the Band requires to do the necessary research, and make such financial assistance available.

It is of paramount importance that the Indians' claims be heard and settled. This should be given top priority. They have been too long outstanding and until they are settled, there will not be that unity among the Indian Bands as is required to achieve full development of their potential. Each Band is jealous of its rights, and unless these are definitely defined, each Band will remain an entity to itself. Only after each of their positions is clarified will they act as a cohesive group to solve their other problems.

Some toys unsafe

The responsibility for the protection of children lies with parents as well as toy designers, manufacturers and legislators, Mrs. A.B.R. Lawrence, president of the Canadian Toy Testing Council, says.

In an article written for Canadian Consumer, a magazine published by the Consumers Association of Canada, she says that almost any toy can be unsafe if it is misused or given to the wrong child.

"Parents must anticipate the accidents that can occur, particularly in a family where there is a wide age span, and teach older children to keep many of their toys out of the reach of younger ones.

"This is true only of obviously dangerous toys such as chemistry sets and dart games but of many seemingly harmless toys. A marble, for instance, can mean hours of play to a nine-year-old boy and death to a baby.

"In addition, an intelligent assessment of the possible misuse of a toy in order. For example, a pull toy is an excellent one for a toddler but should never accompany him into a play pen or crib where the cord could get caught around his neck and strangle him."

Mrs. Lawrence, wife of the Ontario minister of financial and commercial affairs and mother of four, says parents should also realize the dangers inherent in some toys.

"They should warn school-age children who are using electrical toys such as wood-burning sets not to operate such toys when their hands or clothing are wet. They should see that inflatable water toys are never used by non-swimmers in water beyond their depth.

"Finally, that most innocent-appearing toy, the balloon, has been known to asphyxiate several children who inhaled instead of exhaling while blowing them up."

Mrs. Lawrence, whose Ottawa-based organization of about 20 volunteer workers each year tests a quantity of toys on the market, includes in her article both explanations of legislation affecting toy safety in Canada and tips to consumers about hazards to watch for when buying toys.

For example, she advises parents buying rattles and similar infant toys to avoid thin, brittle plastic "as it is extremely splintery and dangerous when broken." Bells and balls which are part of infant toys should be too large to swallow should they become detached.

A section on costumes warns parents to read a costume label carefully to see whether the outfit resists flame and whether washing will affect this quality.

"Some light-reflecting parts are desirable if the costume is to be worn at night. As masks can restrict vision and be uncomfortable, the Canadian Toy Testing Council recommends using washable theatrical makeup instead. It is safer, cheaper and just as much fun."

The council also says that play housekeeping equipment which is primarily intended for three, four and five-year-old children should not be electrical.

"This age group has no way of understanding the potential fire, shock and burn hazard of the potential of an electrical outlet and so has no business plugging anything into one."

Juveniles win opener

Last Thursday night the Deseronto Juvenile hockey team defeated the Waupoos Juvenile by a score of 6-2, on the latter's ice. The first two periods were very close, with the scores at the end of the first period being 1-1, and at the end of two periods the score was 2-2. Waupoos came from behind in each of the first two periods to tie Deseronto, but the third period was Deseronto's all the way, with the latter scoring four goals on brilliant plays by both the defence and the forward lines.

Dan Woodcock played a marvelous game in goal for Deseronto instopping 22 of the 24 shots put at him by the fast forward line of Waupoos. Top goal-getter for Deseronto was Brian Jackson who scored 3 goals; Steve Kemp, Bob Saunders and Steve Alkenbrack added one goal apiece. I must say the boys were very sharp for the first game of the year, and should be very sharp and hard to defeat in our Juvenile Tournament in January. More will be said about this at a later date.

FUTURE GAMES:

Thursday—Deseronto Juveniles vs. Waupoos (Pictou) 9:30p.m.
Sunday—Deseronto Juveniles vs. Campbellford; Deseronto Midgets vs. Campbellford (Campbellford) 10a.m.

Bus leaves for Pictou at 8:30—Campbellford at 8a.m. sharp Juvenile-Midget? PeeWee practices have been called for Friday night at the Wellington Arena 7:30 to 9:30; bus will leave from Arena at 6:15 sharp. Bus fare will be 50¢ for non-players & 25¢ for players.

The Recreation Committee wishes to thank Baz Auto, Hawley Brothers and Dawson's Marina for their donation of hockey tickets to the Junior B hockey game in Belleville Friday, December 3rd. All 110 tickets were much appreciated.

To The Citizens Of Deseronto

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I would like to express my gratitude for the confidence you have shown in me. The results on December 6th far exceeded my expectations. A special thanks to members of my family and friends who worked so hard for me on that date.

I can only say I will endeavour to work with all my efforts for you in the near future.

At this time I would like to take the opportunity to wish you and yours a very merry Christmas and a prosperous new year. May we all look forward to a better Deseronto.

U THANT WILL VISIT QUEEN'S
U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations, will make a second attempt to visit Queen's University.

He failed to fulfil an engagement in 1965 when a protracted security council meeting on the civil war in the Dominican Republic prevented him from receiving an honorary doctor of laws degree at a May convocation.

Friday, it was announced the U Thant will be Queen's fourth Brockington visitor and will spend several days on the campus next fall.

Previous Brockington visitors have been former Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson (1969), Sir Bernard Lovell (1970) and most recently, Gunnar Myrdal of Sweden.

The Brockington Visitorship was established to honor the late Leonard W. Brockington, a distinguished broadcaster and public servant, who was rector of Queen's from 1947 until his death in 1966.

Duncan McDowell, retiring chairman of the Brockington Visitorship committee, said the visitor usually is on campus for several days, speaks to faculty and students at meetings and seminars, and delivers a main public address.

Arrangements for U Thant's visit will be handled by John Bankes, Arts '73, incoming chairman of the Brockington committee.

Although the Dominican Republic crisis kept U Thant off Queen's campus in 1965, arrangements were made for his address to be read.

FISHERIES RESEARCH STATION
PREPARES FOR FIELD PROJECT

Preparations are underway at the Fisheries Research Station at Glenora for International Field Year of the Great Lakes which is 1972. This is the first major project of its kind undertaken jointly by Ontario and the United States. The project involves a physical study of Lake Ontario.

A spokesman for the Fisheries Research Station at Glenora says employees are preparing equipment for the Field Year project. The goal of the project he said is to determine the current status of the Lake. A great deal is known about pollution inputs and outputs he explained but what goes on in between? A series of biological and chemical studies of the lake will be made.

The investigation is very important the spokesman said. This will be the first year of a fully integrated work project between Canada and the US and it is hoped an integrated work pattern can be established and maintained in the future.

The beginning of the field year is April 1. In January of next year Canada and the US will make a full announcement re: the project. Two large vessels from each country as well as dozens of smaller boats will be involved.

At the present time researchers are also involved in data analyses. Analyses can now be done on Computers which saves a great deal of work and time for researchers. The station recently wound up its last project for the season, the tagging of Whitefish.

Eskimo students in the south

They go back north "to learn to be human"

Indian and Eskimo students become so unsettled attending universities in southern Canada they must return home to learn to be human, a conference studying the feasibility of a University of Canada North was told recently.

Addy Tobak, 28, of Fort Good Hope, N.W.T., a third-year psychology student at the University of Calgary, described the struggle faced by Indian and Eskimo students to ES delegates at the two-day conference ended.

"Our people have been bombarded by more change in the last two to five years than in the previous 50 and what happened in the pre-industrial revolution era of Europe is happening to us now."

She said contemporary life on southern Canadian university campuses is so unsettling "you have to come back and learn from the people you left."

"You can get all the academic training down south but you have to come back to your people to learn to be human."

Gordon Duncan, a 17-year-old Whitehorse, Yukon high school student, suggested a resource centre be established in the territories.

Send us a professor and 15 students, we will assist them and learn from the professor."

James Arvaluk, 24, of Frobisher Bay, N.W.T. described an experiment in which he and six friends established their own university and asked university graduates working in the area to provide lectures.

All the northern students emphasized they wanted a new style of university, one which would include them "in the role of life."

Rev. Andre Renaud of Saskatoon, chairman of the Indian and northern education program at the University of Saskatchewan, said universities "must now make provision for the descendants of the First Canadians."

"Please grab this opportunity before the new north comes rushing in and it is too late."

He said northern Canadians must ensure they are involved in the concept of the university of the north.

Dr. Louis Edmond Hamelin, Director of Nordic studies at Laval University, Quebec, said the curriculum of any proposed northern university should be "produced around the things of the north."

He said departments should include Eskimology—which he described as the study of Eskimo history, language, habitat and cultural anthropology—-biogeography, permafrost engineering, political science and economics.

He also suggested the university should undertake a study of Eskimo and Indian rights.

"The lateness of Canada in this field is something to be ashamed of and in this case study should be initiated not by lawyers but by historians and ethnologists."

nutty me

Dear Friend,

For the first time in my life I was introduced to the taste of a hickory nut. Living in the city I had tasted all the nuts on the grocery shelf, plus chestnuts, Dads roasted and black walnuts. But somehow I had missed the hickory.

A friend when I went visiting was busy cracking salad nuts and asked, "Have you your nuts in for the winter?" Not being a squirrel I hadn't given much thought to it. But after a dish of these tasty nut meats I decided to hunt down some of my own.

Now I know most trees and their leaves, but I didn't know a hickory leaf. So I spent a few hours, with dogs all having a good chase about, walking for acres and acres looking for nuts. Finally on our own place I found a tree bare of leaves and lo and behold - a nut to match one I had from my friend and was carrying. After digging amongst dead leaves and a bit of cow drops I was surprised to find they also came in green covered bolls.

Well, now I am all set gathering nuts! I decided to have a sandwich and milk, and carried my lunch bag (cats now in town), sitting on the ground, back against a tree, eating cats and dogs all mooching and picking up nuts.

My husband came home for lunch, so I went up to the house carrying my nuts.

He said, "Oh, gathering hickory nuts."

I said, "Yes, and a device of a time to find some."

He laughed and said, "our front lawn is covered in them."

"In acorns," I said.

"Also hickory nuts," he said.

And sure enough it was. I collected 10 times as many there. I hope to spend winter evenings munching on nuts I'll crack on cat's scratching post. (And maybe even bake a cake.)

Which goes to show, I couldn't see the trees (or nuts) for the forest!

- Nita Went

The proposed university should adopt the name "Northern school of higher studies" with campuses in the Eastern Arctic and the Mackenzie Valley, Dr. Hamelin said.

Dr. Donald DeFoe of Fairbanks, vice-president of statewide services at the University of Alaska, pledged the assistance of his university if it was decided to establish a university in the territories.

He said the University of Alaska now underwrites the tuition of any student from the Yukon wishing to study in Alaska (Whig Standard)

Chief Hill re-elected

In elections held on the Tyendinaga Reserve last Saturday December 19th Chief Earl Hill was re-elected, winning over his opponent, Bennett Brant by a count of 186 to 96.

According to reports, this election was one of the most interesting in quite a few years with a real contest between the traditional (long-hair) and progressive (short-hair) parties. Chief Hill leads the traditionalists.

Dr. Clare Brant, Carl Brant and Willard Hill were re-elected as councillors, while William Brant (a member of the progressive party) won over ex-councillor Garnet Maracle (a traditionalist) by one vote.

There was a good turn-out of voters. The figures are as follows:

Dr. Clare Brant	207
Carl Brant	201
Willard Hill	141
William Brant	136
Garnet Maracle	135
Wes Bardy	89
Elwood Brant	77
Victor Brant	69

Family of nine left homeless called to the scene at 12:30 a.m., after the alarm was given by a passing motorist.

The mother, Mrs. Leween was at home with seven children, ranging in age from one to ten. Mr. Leween (Dick) was not at home.

After the blaze was under control, the children admitted to police that they had been playing with matches, and had set the curtains on fire.

Firemen fought to keep the blaze under control, but were unsuccessful in saving the house. All they could do was to save the adjacent buildings and clothes from a clothesline. Firemen did not leave the scene until 4:30 a.m.

Orval Brant is accepting donations of money and clothing on behalf of the Leweens.

The family is now living in a house on the Bayshore Road.

The children are: Linda (10) Kirk (9), Allison (8) Terrence (7), Lena (6) Farrel (5) and Amy (1)

Dancers perform on TV

A group of sixteen school-children from the Tyendinaga Reserve travelled to Kingston on Monday afternoon to perform a 15 minute program of Indian dances on CKWS-TV. Under the direction of Mrs. Earl Hill (the Chief's wife) this group of enthusiastic boys and girls from grades three and four has made many public appearances, since its beginning last Spring.

Their last public performance was on October 30th at St. Lawrence College, Kingston, when they participated in an International Variety Show.

Guest Editorial

At this Christmas Season the Peace symbol appears everywhere. It is one of the nobler thoughts of the Season. Peace cannot be achieved without LOVE. Love of ones' fellow man. It has been said, "Blessed is the man who has the gift of making friends; for it is one of God's best gift's. It involves many things, but above all the power of going out of one's own self and seeing and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another man." If all mankind practiced the above philosophy, then we would surely have that PEACE which we so much desire.

PEACE ON EARTH, GOODWILL TO MAN was the message of the First Christmas and is still the most important message of present day world.

On Christmas Day let us remember to reflect on cherished holidays of other years, other places. Blurry memories of childhood, of stockings lumpy with candies and fruit, of long coveted toys, come clearly into the minds eye; and not so blurry memories of Christmas only last year. As we shared the happiness of the family in opening gift surprises we were reassured of what maybe we'd been doubting—that it is home and family, steadied with an atmosphere of security and understanding, of love and respect, that enriches the experience of Christmas.

Christmas is traditionally a time for sharing, for exchanging gifts and for getting together with family and friends. But for the less fortunate, it can be a bleak time, unless someone remembers them.

An old proverb sums up the holiday message:

"If there is right in the soul,
There will be beauty in the person;
If there is beauty in the person,
There will be harmony in the home;
If there is harmony in the home,
There will be order in the nation;
If there is order in the nation,
There will be peace in the world."

Juveniles

JUVENILES SPLIT TWO GAMES

Last Thursday night in Picton arena the Deseronto Juveniles handed the Waupoos juvenile team their second defeat by the identical score of 6-2. Again Deseronto's goal tender Don Woodcock came up with a brilliant game as he stopped a total of 22 shots. Before the year is out I am sure Don will even come up with several shut-outs. The top goal getter this week was another hat-trick boy by the name of Darrell Pritchard. Darrell, I am sure will have more three-goal games as the year passes with his great abilities of skating, stick-handling, and being in the right place at the right time. Bob Saunders, another good forward had a very productive night as he picked up two goals. Don Moon, a great rushing defense man, also picked up a goal. Assists went to Garnet Brant, one, Steve Kemp - one, and Steve Alkenback picked up two for the night.

On Sunday in Campbellford the story was just in reverse as the more powerful Campbellford team beat the juveniles by a convincing 13-3; there is not too much to say except that they need a lot of practice to beat a team of this calibre. The Midgets did not fare much better as they lost to the Campbellford Midgets but by a much smaller margin. The scorers are not known but the well-organized Campbellford team had a hard time eking out a 4-3 win over Deseronto. We must also realize that this was the first game that the Midgets have played, with no practice, so they will be hard for any team to beat if and when they get some practice. Time. The next game that was known of at press time will be Sunday-January 2nd, in Deseronto at 1 p.m. If we have ice, this game will be well worth watching as the Campbellford Juveniles will be here to take on the home squad.

Greetings

Wolf life has lessons for man

By Gordon C. Haber
Mr. Haber, a doctoral candidate in zoology at the University of British Columbia, is conducting long-term studies of wolves and their prey in Mount McKinley National Park, Alaska.

Wolves are perhaps the most social of all sub-human vertebrates. A pack of wolves is not snarling aggregation of fighting beasts, each bent on fending only for itself, but a highly organized, well disciplined group of related individuals or family units, all working together in a remarkably amiable, efficient manner.

One pack, in Alaska's Mount McKinley National Park, whose behavior I have followed closely for six years, typified the highly social nature of Canis lupus.

The members of this pack are ranked according to the strict convention of a dominance hierarchy—a kind of pecking order—in which each adult knows its position of authority and there are few if any instances of overt strife (in some 900 hours of watching wolves in the wild, I have yet to see a case of all-out fighting within an established pack).

Most important however, this highly developed social organization seems to result in a very efficient division of labor within the pack, with the top-ranking adults assuming the most important responsibilities. The pack leader or "alpha" male—the strongest, fastest, wisest, most experienced wolf in the pack—has the ultimate decisionmaker of power and his authority is unquestioned. He sires the young of the pack and the pack relies on him in critical situations. His mood usually dictates the mood of the pack, and all regularly acknowledge his authority in a variety of ritualized ceremonies.

It is the second-ranking (beta) male, however, who directs most of the routine activities of the group, almost as a kind of co-leader or strong assistant to the alpha male. The beta male often takes the initiative when the pack is on the hunt and during the early part of the denning period attends to the whelping female even more closely than does her own mate, the alpha male—although all individuals participate to some extent in the duties of hunting and caring for the mother and young.

The beta male's particular attentiveness to the breeding female and her reciprocal attraction to him would almost lead one to conclude they are mates, but our observations of this pack during the courtship and mating period over the past winter indicate this isn't so. So long as the present alpha retains his authority, the top female will remain his and no other male will be permitted to mate with her. And the beta male will have to be content with his role as a vicious husband and father.

From the way the alpha male delegates authority to the beta male to run more routine activities of the pack, it would almost seem that there is some purposeful attempt by him to conserve energy for the most important behavioral responsibilities such as mating and guiding the pack in critical situations—much as an efficient human leader in the event the alpha male were to become badly injured or died suddenly.

The top-ranking female is another key individual in the pack.

During the winter as the pack travels within its territory as a unit continuously on the hunt, she generally plays an active, aggressive role in helping to detect and capture prey.

But during the spring and summer, at which time the pack hunts nightly from a fixed den site, her duties are more domestic. Most of her time during this period is spent at the den caring for her pups. After late May, however, when the young first emerge from the den she begins to turn some of the pup-tending duties over to one or two subordinate male or female adults or yearlings of the pack.

Occasionally she will even leave the pups with a babysitter and lightly trot off with the other adults for a fling on the night hunt.

In many ways the social gathering of wolves is almost identical to what anthropologists have pieced together as the social organization of early man, or even to that of some primitive human hunter-gatherer societies of today.

The well-defined dominance order and disciplined manner in which duties are assigned and carried out, the presence of different generations of the same family living together, the prolonged dependency of the young, the group effort in raising and training them, the co-operation of many individuals in hunting large prey—in these and other respects wolves, like our own human ancestors, have developed a highly effective means of coping with a wide variety of ecological conditions.

Perhaps by more intensively studying—not persecuting—a species so similar in behavior to that of our ancestors, we can learn much more about ourselves.

youth

All the lads and girls today are different than we were-- sometimes it's hard for us to tell a him from a her. When we were teens we had no jeans, and boys had no long hair.

However I have finally learned the best way one can choose is look down at their feet you see, cause, ha!ha! boys have bigger shoes. Now boys may keep their hair real long, and girls may wear their jeans, cause all that really matters is the hearts of these modern teens. For most are good, and most are kind, and I love 'em everyone, so let's publicize the good ones and the things that they have done and then let's try to help along those few who sadly have gone wrong.

I hereby proclaim, Monday,
December 27th, 1971, to be a
CIVIC HOLIDAY in and for the Town of Deseronto.

J. W. Shantz
Mayor.

Hey, any o'you old folks remember Christmas like it used to be? This time of year I sure feel sorry for the younguns. For them it's just getting a lot of stuff wrapped up in fancy paper and ribbons, stringin' store-bought sparklin' things on a skinny plastic creation they've the pumpton to call a tree. Then they stuff themselves with in-stant vittles all laid out in fancy little dishes.

When I was young preparin for Christmas started about October. My ma'd start puttin aside some of her nicest preserves so's they wouldn't get eaten by the family. What she was plannin on doin was to put a big ribbon round the jars and give them to relations for a present. Then we'd start fattenin up a couple of chickens or geese or whatever we had around at the time. Pa'd set a big barrel of cider in the cold so's to get some real strong stuff to serve the company and to cure any sore throat around.

Over at Frank's Place

Then we'd set to makin popcorn to decorate the tree we was goin to fetch out of the back woods. We'd also help ma cut out fancy cookies and put string on 'em to hang on the tree. When we was all finished decoratin the tree it really looked good enough to eat.

At first light on Christmas mornin'g younguns 'd race to the parlour. We'd have to put on our coats over our night clothes cause pa wain't even up to stoke the fire in the kitchen stove yet and it was pretty cold. The rule in our house was that we could look at everything but couldn't touch till the chores were done. You wouldn't believe how quick those chores got done!

Our presents weren't much considerin what the kids get now-a-days. If it was a good year the girl'd each get one of them dolls with the china head and the boys got a new pair of snowshoes or else a new sled made by pa himself. If the year hadn't been so good then we got just what was in the stockings. That used to be an orange and a toy soldier and maybe a few store-bought candies. I forget what the girls got in their stockings.

Then it was time to dress up for church. We'd climb into the sleigh pulled by old Cleopatra. You see, my oldest sister'd read a book once and there was a woman named that in it, so we called the old nag Cleopatra. It really set the neighbours to wonderin' where we'd dug up such a fool name. Well anyway, we always missed the run to church on Christmas mornin'. Pa'd usually feel sort o' frisky and racin' his neighbour Jonah and ma'd scatter all the furniture all that powder, so she was flum in her face and over her church hat. Besides, she'd say it wasn't proper.

After night chores it'd be time for the big meal. Ma'd spent days gettin ready for it and it was really something to see. She'd stretch a big white tablecloth that was kept just for special occasions like Christmas and wakes. All the jars of pickles, relish and spiced tomatoes were set right on, there weren't none of them fancy little dishes that get empty after two people've taken their fill. Then she'd bring in huge bowls full of mashed potatoes, squash and turnip with gobs of our butter melting on top. There'd be the two stuffed birds of course, and a pot full of meat balls and gravy. Along with ma's bread right from the oven, it made for quite a meal. When everybody wore they couldn't eat another bite, she'd bring out juicy apple pie, fat pumpkin pies with heaps of whipped cream on top, and the Christmas cookies. After a feed like that you'd hardly be able to get up from the table.

The young folks don't know what they're missing, so I guess it's just as well they're happy with what they've got. But we old fellers know better, don't we!!!!

Merry Christmas, neighbours

Happenings

The Presbyterian Sunday School held their Christmas Party on Friday evening Dec. 17, starting with a Pot-luck supper for the children and their parents. Following the supper the minister Rev. Robt. Jones showed several Christmas films which were enjoyed by all. Finally came the arrival of that jolly old man, Santa Claus which caused great excitement among the little ones. With the help of the teachers Santa gave gifts apples, and Christmas stockings filled with candies to all the children, including the ones too young to attend Sunday School. A gift from the Sunday School to Mr. & Mrs. Jones was received by Mrs. Jones. Mr. Henry Klaver presented Mr. Jones with a cheque from the congregation. A surprise awaited the teachers at the close of the program, when Mrs. Beryl Herman gave a few words of appreciation and presented each one with a gift on behalf of the congregation.

Mrs. Mabel Moore expressed the thanks of all the teachers. Also thanks to all who helped in any way with donations, etc. to make the party a success. Teachers are Mrs. Mabel Moore Mrs. Kay Hood, Miss Frances Klaver, and Miss Penny Green, Penny was unable to be there. Mrs. Shirley Foster teaches Part time. A former teacher Mrs. Jean Griffiths, "Auntie Jean" to the little ones, was greatly missed.

Mrs. Helen Kelly of the Mental Health Association and Mrs. English, visited the McGillivray home last Friday. A Christmas tree was put up and decorated. All the patients assisted in this project. Each received a gift and card. Drinks and cookies were served, to end a very enjoyable afternoon.

Despite the weather, "The Inspirations" arrived at the Church of the Redeemer for 2p.m. service on Sunday. Many turned out to hear them. Most of the sacred songs they sang were made by a member of the group. In keeping with the Christmas service they sang "O Holy Night" which was very beautifully done.

To The Residents of Hastings County

Dear Friends:

As the holiday season is near at hand I would like to take this opportunity to extend seasons greetings to all the residents of Hastings.

To my mind, the future in Ontario looks bright I am confident that some additional measures of prosperity are in store for Hastings County particularly. It is my hope that I will be of some assistance in gaining for each individual his share of happiness and prosperity.

I am confident that differences of the past can be resolved by our united actions in the future.

To each resident in our county I offer a sincere and heartfelt Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. May we all look forward to peace and happiness in the year ahead.

Dear Friend,

There's something about Christmas time on the farm that we never had in city life.

I remember so well how my husband and the three boys and I all bundled up and hiked over our fields to pick "the" tree. Everyone finding one just a little better... till finally we took a vote. The important decision made and Dad with the tree over his shoulder, we hiked back over crisp crunchy snow. Air so fresh... working up appetites for hot chocolate and sandwiches.

Then the tree placed just so - which side looked best? And out with the decorations. (Some we'd forgotten, to be re-admired). And all had to be hung to their best advantage. The Santa cookies and candy canes; paper Santa's with cotton beards the boys made some years back. More popcorn to string and green and red paper chains to make. Each day something new added till the branches bent.

It always has seemed a shame to me to cut trees, but I love the pine smell and our trees have to be real ones. After they go outside they stand for weeks with suet tied on for the birds.

The house also has a different feeling with the tree up.

(The cats are sure it's for them to climb.) The house takes on a festive air with its green and red streamers and the smell of cloves in oranges hung on velvet ribbon. Bowls of nuts, fruit and candy. And then to sit in the dark with just the tree lights and sing carols.

Christmas is to me a time of good smells (not to forget the turkey cooking.) Presents, I don't really look for, as long as the children have theirs. It's enough to see everyone happy, content, at peace with God and our fellowmen.

Christmas at the Lairds

'Christmas at the Lairds', the annual December open house at Allan Macpherson House closed Saturday, December 11th with an attendance of close to a hundred on the last day. This year during the seven days the house was open approximately 1200 people, adults and children, one a seven week old baby visited there.

Best customers for the week-long activities are the school children, who in past years have come from as far north as Denbigh. At one stage in the preparation for the 1971, Christmas at the Lairds it seemed probable that no school classes except those within walking distance could attend. The freeze on school budgets made hiring buses an impossibility.

In spite of this, school classes from Tyendinaga, Newburgh, Centerville, Asselstine, Bath and HH Langford schools managed to find transportation. In some cases, a pool of parents brought the pupils. Other classes raised their own money to pay for the buses that brought them.

Activities at Macpherson House were planned to demonstrate a different way of preparing for Christmas. Prominent in the afternoon activities were demonstrations by pupils from different schools, showing how to make decorations for Christmas by hand, using simple materials found in most households of the past.

On Monday Mr. W. Nolan principal of St. Mary's Separate School at Enterprise brought a group of his pupils; on Tuesday

Mr. Bill Pollard supervised young people from Arc Workshop of Slash road as they created garlands. Mrs. Grace Weese brought students from Asselstine school on Wednesday. Thursday Mr. Dupe had pupils from Morven School making mobiles.

On Friday Mr. Jim Kuehn's class from Centerville created a variety of decorations. On Saturday Brownies directed by Mrs. D. Stewart, made Christmas candles from tin foil, cardboard tubes and red paper.

Upstairs the many activities of a household where all the food and clothing had to be prepared by the women of the house made a pleasant hubbub. The turkey red curtains for the kitchen grew during the week as the loom clacked under the expert fingers of Mrs. Lorne Graves, and Mrs. Doreen Jeffers of Kingston. Miss Betty Smith and Mrs. Sylvia Currie of Kingston busy spinning, both on the small wheel and on the larger walking wheel.

Everyday, and sometimes twice a day the brick oven was fired to bake bread. Over the fireplace plum puddings and

EXPECT UEL FACTORY WILL CLOSE

Recently the United Empire Loyalist Cheese Factory in Darland stopped accepting milk from its patrons. That in itself is not strange, for each year the factory closes down for the winter months, and the milk otherwise going to the factory would be diverted to the Pet Milk Co. in Napanee. But this year indications are that the factory has been closed down for good.

The UEL cheese factory has been in operation since 1897.

Mrs. Ruth Brooks, secretary of the cheese factory, says the shareholder-owned business has been operating "in the red" for several years. This year there was an unexpected rise in the price of cheddar cheese, and this kept the company "in the black". But the price of cheese is not expected to remain at the present high level for future years.

No final decision has been taken about the future of the factory, since no shareholder meeting has been held yet. The meeting has not been called but it is expected to be scheduled for early in the new year.

Joseph Shelley, Reeve of Adolphustown, and a shareholder in the cheese factory, says he feels badly about the expected permanent closing of the factory. "It is too bad for the township and the county to lose this factory," he said.

If the factory is closed for good it would mean four of Lennox and Addington County cheese factories have closed down in the past two years.

Three of them in the past year. Last year the Forest Mills factory was closed, and this year the Newburgh and then the Selby cheese factories were closed.

Decking Halls Has History

"Christ was born on Christmas day. Wreath the holly, hime the bay."

From England of long ago come the words of this carol, showing the early role of the bay tree and its greens in decorating for Christmas.

Its use harks back to ancient Greece, when both the bay and the laurel bedecked homes and public places in symbol of triumph. As traditional Christmas greens, they reflect the same joyful spirit.

Mistletoe Has Powers

Mysterious powers by the dozens have been credited to mistletoe, among them the power to heal, to ward off evil, to summon ghosts and force them to answer questions.

At present, the most prized property of mistletoe is the license it gives for plenty of Yuletide kissing. Fortunately, there's plenty of mistletoe.

Thanks to the birds, the plant spreads widely. The birds eat mistletoe berries and carry the seeds to trees near and far.

Snowmobiles

The thrust of the continuing debate concerning the environmental impact of snowmobiles has unfortunately been limited to noise. Recent ecological studies strongly suggest that the horizon of the debate should be broadened to include the effect of snow compaction on the structure of the soil itself.

Dr. Wanek, Centre for Environmental Studies, Bemidji State College in Minnesota, reported the results of his continuing experiments at a recent snowmobile conference in London, Ontario. He found that the soil temperature in the crucial top six inches was just a fraction below freezing on the untouched plots, whereas it was far below freezing, as much as ~~140c~~, after the snow had been compacted by snowmobiles. The significance of these figures lies in the fact that bulbs or corms will not survive the winter if they experience temperatures below freezing.

Further, Dr. Wanek found a hundred-fold decrease in the total number of soil microbes on the snowmobile plots, and a tuototen-fold decrease in fungi population. It should be noted here, that Dr. Wanek's definition of heavy snowmobile use was one snowmobile pass after every significant snowfall for a winter total of 12 passes.

Dr. Wanek reported that since his studies were on-going, they could not be regarded as being conclusive, but that notwithstanding, did give a clear indication of the damage caused by these snowmobile machines.

mincemeat steamed and cooked in the iron pots found ready buyers. Doughnuts fried in a pot suspended from the crane, and corn popped over the coals were scarcely done before they were bought by waiting customers.

One of the most interesting activities, judging from comments of visitors, was the churning done on Tuesday and Thursday in the old crock churn, by Mrs. Gwen Polley and Mrs. Keir, and M.s. Norma Snider. In all they made twenty seven pounds of butter.
